Senators Offer Two-Thirds Re-Enactment Compromise; Opinions of Labor, Grange

Dr. Bush Elected Chief Of Benedictine Staff; Succeeds Dr. O'Meara

Well-Known Surgeon Unanimously Elected by Brother Staff Members to Post of Honor at Hospital.

RANKS HIGH

Dr. Bush is Fellow of American College of Surgeons and is Widely Known.

The new chief of staff of the Benedictine Hospital is Dr. William S. Bush. Dr. Bush, who takes the position formerly held by the late Dr. Mark O'Meara, like his predecessor, is a Fellow of the American College of Surgeons. He was chosen unanimously at a special meeting of the doctors of the regular hospital staff yesterday.

Formal vesture of the rank will be conferred upon Dr. Bush after a meeting of the Benedictine Hospital executive board Saturday evening. This action of the board is expected to be a mere formality, Dr. Bush's position being almost certain since his election was without dissent.

Dr. Bush has practiced in Kingston and vicinity for the last 15 years and is acknowledged as one of the leading physicians and surgeons of this section of the state. He is a graduate of old Ulster Academy, Fordham University, class of 1920, and has done considerable special work in various medical institutions.

The new chief of staff has been a member of the regular staff of the hospital since he began practice here. Although maintaining a large general practice, Dr. Bush has become best known for his surgical ability, which has attained wide recognition.

His election to chief of staff is in keeping with the practice of the hospital to maintain a high rank among similar institutions in the country. Dr. O'Meara, whom he succeeds, held the position of chief of staff for almost a quarter of a century, being officially elected to that position in 1913, although he had served in the acting capacity for several years previously.

The Benedictine Hospital, which Dr. Bush now heads, has for a number of years been rated among the top class of institutions of its kind in the state, and has from time to time been commended for its progressiveness in modern methods and equipment. The last annual report of the hospital superintendent, Sister Berenice, shows that during 1936, 2,654 patients were treated. The report also shows that the hospital enjoys a high ranking from the American College of Surgeons' survey, a position which every hospital seeks to obtain in this organization's report, which is considered a standard of measurement in the medical world.

Production Next Week

Detroit, Feb. 17 (AP)—General Motors Corporation said today that 16 of its 69 automotive units, seven Fisher Body plants and nine Chevrolet factories, have not resumed operations yet but will start production by the middle of next week. The plants included the Fisher Body and Chevrolet units at Tarrytown, N. Y. Methods of settling "past, present and future" Union grievances in General Motors plants formed the agenda today for negotiators representing the corporation and the United Automobile Workers of America.

Wicks Offers Bill To Give Veterans Claims on Relief

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 17 (AP)—World War veterans who were refused relief moneys last year because of payment of the soldiers' bonus may be given a chance to recover in the courts.

Senator Arthur H. Wicks, Kingston Republican, offered a bill today in New York's legislature to give such persons a claim against the town or city in which the relief was denied.

"The claim," the bill said, "shall be considered as any other claim against the town or city."

Another bill, introduced by Assemblyman Rudolph Zimmerman, Brooklyn Democrat, proposes repeal of the [illegible] law requiring New York state teachers to take an oath of allegiance to the United States.

Other new bills would:

Prohibit telephone companies from making an additional service charge for installation of hand-set telephones. (Assemblyman John S. Thompson, Orleans Republican.)

Compel, instead of permit, additional credit for qualified war veterans in examinations for promotion under civil service. (Assemblyman Bernard Austin, Brooklyn Democrat.)

Permit a member of the New York city employes' retirement system to borrow up to 50 per cent instead of 25 of his accumulated contributions. (Assemblyman Irwin D. Davidson, New York Democrat.)

Appropriate $50,000 for state-wide [illegible] of Pheasants. (Assemblyman Maurice Whitney, Rensselaer Republican.)

LOST AND FOUND—BY PICTURES

LOST— This 15-months-old boy was listed as "unclaimed" when The Associated Press first sent out this picture of Nurse Alma Heller feeding him at a Red Cross emergency hospital in Louisville during the flood crisis.

FOUND— But Mrs. Joseph Cannon (holding the child) saw the photograph, recognized her son, William, whom she thought safe in a flood-marooned hospital, and traced him to a refugee center, where the boy was returned by Mrs. Ray Herrington (right). (Associated Press Photos)

Investigation Is Started In Hudson River Hospital Fire Near Poughkeepsie

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., Feb. 17 (AP).—Two hundred and fifty inmates of the Hudson River State Hospital for Insane rested in smoke-tinged temporary quarters today while officials investigated the institution's second fire in six months.

The patients were transferred to temporary beds in lower corridors of the hospital's main building last night as a three-hour fire swept through upper floors of the structure.

Dr. Ralph P. Folsom, superintendent, said all of them remained "very calm" while nurses and attendants led them through the smoke-filled halls. He estimated property damage at $15,000.

No one was hurt although firemen from Poughkeepsie and Fairview who fought the blaze in a below-freezing temperature had to strap themselves to the tops of ladders to keep from slipping.

Approximately the same amount of damage was caused by flames that broke out in the early morning of September 27, 1936, in a nearby building. Forty-three patients were removed then without panic or injury. That fire originated in a linen room and was caused by an overheated electric iron.

Started in Utility Room.

Last night's blaze started in a utility room of the women employes' quarters on the fourth floor, and spread rapidly. Firemen, however, poured tons of water into the upper floor and succeeded in confining the fire to that area.

Dr. Folsom said he would launch an immediate investigation into the origin of the blaze.

The fire attracted hundreds from nearby Poughkeepsie and motorists from the Albany-New York Post road, a main highway which the hospital borders. Hospital police barred all from the buildings.

More than 4,000 patients are quartered at the institution and Dr. Folsom said the fire damage would necessitate some crowding. He said he would ask the state to appropriate immediately the funds necessary for repairs and facilities.

Treasury Receipts

Washington, Feb. 17 (AP).—The position of the Treasury on February 15: Receipts, $28,070,956.22; expenditures, $45,654,955.57; balance, $1,607,677,428.65; customs receipts for the month, $20,737,168.19; receipts for the fiscal year (since July 1), $2,592,582,820.61; expenditures, $4,540,002,862.62, (including $1,527,264,879.53 of emergency expenditures); excess of expenditures, $1,946,409,542.02; gross debt, $34,564,896,432.00, an increase of $14,453,336.00 over the previous day; gold assets, $11,257,196,464.57, including $166,020,734.96 of inactive gold.

Kin Seeks Damages In Death of Man Fire Fighting at Home

A notice of appeal to the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court, third judicial district, has been filed by Seth T. Cole, attorney of Albany, who appeared as attorney for petitioner in an action brought by Mrs. Anna Hommel, as executrix etc., of Oscar Hommel, late of the town of Saugerties, against the town of Saugerties.

Mrs. Hommel brought an action to recover $3,000 under section 205 of the General Municipal Law of the state, which provides that any volunteer fireman who loses his life while actively engaged in his duties as a fireman, is entitled to payment from the town in that sum of money.

The action was tried some time ago before County Judge Frederick G. Traver. Mr. Cole appeared for petitioner and Andrew J. Cook for the town of Saugerties. Judge Traver on January 19, handed down a decision disallowing the claim of petitioner on the grounds that at the time Mr. Hommel was burned he was acting to protect his own property from fire and was not acting in the official capacity of a volunteer fireman who had been summoned to save property of the fire district. The law provides that any volunteer fireman summoned as a member of a volunteer fire company who suffers death as a result of injuries suffered while on duty places his widow in a position to collect $3,000 from the town. Judge Traver held that Mr. Hommel was acting as an individual to save his own property which was on fire and not in the capacity of a volunteer fireman.

The action arose when Mr. Hommel was severely burned while fighting a fire in his own home. He and a companion had been out hunting and returned to the home which lies within the Centerville fire district. While engaged in preparing something to eat the house took fire and Mr. Hommel in an effort to save the property was burned and later died.

When the fire was discovered Mr. Hommel battled the fire and the Centerville department was called. The court held that Mr. Hommel was engaged in battling the fire as a property owner before the volunteer fire department had been called out and that if he suffered injury during that period and before the department had been called then he was acting as owner and not as a member of the company since the fire company had not yet been called.

Mr. Cole has filed notice of an appeal to the decision of Judge Traver and the matter will now move up to the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court.

Parliament in Battle Over 7½ Billion Arms Program for Britain

Opponents Charge Scheme is Inflationary and Would Place Tax Rate at $1.37 for Every $5 of Income.

"READY MADE" ARMY

Plans Formulated for Army of 2 Million Men; Recruiting Finds Little Favor.

London, Feb. 17 (AP)—Labor and Liberal party critics opened a parliamentary battle today against Great Britain's huge $7,500,000,000 rearmament program.

The government's attempt to float a $2,000,000,000 arms loan and raise the other $5,500,000,000 by taxation in the next five years launched a debate by opposition leaders that was expected to grip Parliament for two days.

Leaders of the fight against the vast peacetime defense measures, announced in an official white paper, charged the program was inflationary and would skyrocket the cost of living.

Included in the consequences of the greatest expenditure for war that Great Britain ever has contemplated in peace, they declared, would be increased speculation and an exaggerated boom, with its attendant bad economic effects.

Rise in Taxes

Other critics opened fire on the program as lacking coordination. Financial observers estimated the increased burden on the British taxpayer would average a step-up in the income tax rate to $1.37 in every $5.00 of income. The average rate now is $1.18 to $5.00.

Despite the developing opposition, Premier Stanley Baldwin's government plunged ahead with grim determination to make Britain's navy the most modern in the world, her air force as big as any on the European continent and her small army as efficient as that of any other power.

The white paper disclosed perhaps more drastic provisions for the standing army than any other of the services in a plan that envisaged complete mechanization.

Although faced with a shortage of steel, iron scrap and raw materials, Britain is hastily building up a huge store of arms and ammunition sufficient to put more than two million soldiers in the field immediately it becomes necessary.

Army of 2 Millions

The plans for the "ready made" army of 2,000,000 is based around a slowly growing nucleus of 200,000 men in the regular army and 521,000 in the territorials and reserves.

Increased pressure by the war office to make enlistment attractive has not had the effect of speeding recruiting to the extent hoped for, and recent statements by British statesmen have led to the belief a draft might be instituted as a last resort.

Democrats Reject Overtures

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 17 (AP).—The Democratic high command in New York's Legislature decided today to reject Republican overtures for non-partisan action on resolutions assailing President Roosevelt's court reform program.

Farm Leaders Rush Low Interest Loans For Tenant-Farmers

Washington, Feb. 17 (AP)—Democratic Farm Leaders in Congress, expressing general approval of the President's long term recommendations to aid tenant farmers, agreed today to hasten consideration of low interest loans for the purchase of land.

Chairman Jones (D-Tex) said the House Agriculture Committee would hear suggestions tomorrow from Secretary Wallace or another member of the President's Tenancy Commission and then would draft a measure.

The committee has been studying a proposal by Jones and Senator Bankhead (D-Ala) to set aside $500,000,000 for loans to tenants, sharecroppers and farm laborers desiring to buy farms.

This probably will be the basis of the final bill, the Texan said.

A Senate subcommittee headed by Senator Pope (D-Idaho) will begin hearings within ten days on the commission's seven-point program to help 2,865,000 tenants become independent.

These recommendations, submitted to Congress yesterday by Mr. Roosevelt, call for a confiscatory tax on quick profits from land speculation, a 40-year payment plan for tenants buying land with title withheld for 20 years, and retirement of between two and five million acres of poor crop land each year.

A farm security administration would be set up in the Agriculture Department to direct the projects.

Jones said the President's message was a good one, but suggested broadening the recommendations.

"I believe the tenant should be given title as soon as he can pay for a farm," Jones said. "We could use the money to help other tenants become landowners."

Labor League Will Throw Entire Resources Behind The Proposed Change in Supreme Court Justices.

GRANGE OPPOSED

Farm Organization Head Declares Enlargement No Solution to Problem of Efficiency.

Washington, Feb. 17 (AP).—A pledge by labor's Non-Partisan League to support enlargement of the Supreme Court coincided today with an expression by the National Grange of doubt as to its wisdom.

The entrance of these organizations into the judicial reform controversy—first of their kind to speak formally—was followed by diverging declarations of three Democratic senators.

McAdoo of California and Thomas of Utah urged adoption of President Roosevelt's program, but Van Nuys of Indiana advised Congress not to "tamper with the courts or tinker with the constitution."

The decision of labor's Non-Partisan League brought to the President's aid an organization which supported him in the 1936 election. It is headed by Major George L. Berry, Mr. Roosevelt's coordinator for industrial cooperation, and John L. Lewis of the United Mine Workers is vice president.

The league said it would put all its resources into a national campaign for adoption of the President's suggestion to increase the size of the Supreme Court if justices over 70 do not retire.

To Meet in Three Weeks

A national convention of league representatives will meet here in three weeks, the announcement said, and mass meetings will be held in large cities.

The Grange spoke through its master, L. J. Taber, who explained masters of state Granges had authorized the statement.

To the extent of favoring steps to eliminate delay and reduce costs in lower federal courts, he said, the Grange is in accord with the President.

"The Supreme Court sits as a unit," he added. "Therefore, the mere enlargement of its size cannot increase either its speed or efficiency. We doubt the wisdom of giving to any president of the United States at any time the right to change the size of the court because of the age of its members.

"We ask that these propositions be submitted to Congress in separate bills . . ."

ATTORNEY N. J. FOWLER HONORED BY CORNELL

Ithaca, N. Y., Feb. 17—Attorney Nicholas J. Fowler, Jr., 293 Wall street, has been appointed to the Cornell University Committee on Requests by the chairman, Edward Cornell of New York, it was announced here today. More than 800 practicing attorneys in all parts of the country belong to this committee of Cornell of New York, it was announced by the Cornellian Council. Their object is the encouragement of testamentary gifts to Cornell University.

Formed in 1924, the Cornell Committee on Bequests was the first of its kind in America. It has been highly successful in conveying information about the university's achievements and needs to persons interested in the financial support of the finest type of higher education.

Judge J. M. Fowler and Attorney John M. Cashin have been members of the committee for several years.

Would Free State

Albany, Feb. 17 (AP).—New York's Legislature was asked today to request Congress to free states of the union of a 100-year-old financial obligation to the federal government. Democratic Senator Julius S. Berg, New York city, made the proposal. Congress approved legislation in President Jackson's administration, authorizing distribution of surplus federal funds to the states upon condition it be repaid at call of the government.

A Day Off For Troopers

Firemen Hear Fine Talk Concerning Prevention of Fires

T. Alfred Fleming of National Board of Fire Underwriters Talked on Fire Hazards—Next Meeting in Kingston in March—Two More Fire Companies Join Association

"There is no such thing as a fire-proof building", said T. Alfred Fleming, of Cleveland, Ohio, superintendent of the conservation department of the National Board of Fire Underwriters, addressing the meeting of the Ulster County Volunteer Firemen's Association held Tuesday evening in the council chambers on the third floor of the city hall. Mr. Fleming took as his topic, "Fire Protection and Fire Prevention", and gave a most timely and interesting address.

About 300 firemen from Kingston and Ulster county attended the meeting which was presided over by President John T. Groves of Port Ewen and during the meeting a resolution was adopted changing the date of the next meeting to Thursday evening, March 18, so that Senator Wicks and Assemblyman J. Edward Conway could be present to discuss firemanic bills before the state legislature. As the meeting will be held in Kingston it is likely that it will be held in the council chambers.

Judge Henry E. McKenzie of Port Ewen, a past president of the Hudson Valley Volunteer Firemen's Association and active for over half a century in firemanic matters, drafted a "Roll of Honor" in which will be listed the names of the members of the county organization who have died. The book which was presented to the association last evening contained three names already. They are those of Mark Bacharach of Cornell Hose, Ira Veddar of the Centerville Fire Department, and Charles E. Parsells, a former president of the Hudson Valley Volunteer Firemen's Association.

The county firemen were extended the welcome of Kingston by Acting Mayor John J. Schwenk who expressed the hope that their visit in the city would prove an enjoyable one.

Nelson W. Snyder announced that since the last meeting two more fire departments had joined the county association. The two departments were those of Milton and Cottekill. It was stated that there were now but four fire departments not associated with the organization. They were Plattekill, Rosendale, Gardiner and Walker Valley.

Mr. Snyder suggested that it might be a good idea to hold an Ulster County Day at the Firemen's Home in Hudson, and on motion a committee was appointed by the chair to consider the suggestion and report back at the next meeting. Judge McKenzie was appointed chairman of the committee.

The March and April meetings of the association will also be held in Kingston when Rapid Hose will be the hosts at the March meeting and Cordts Hose at the April meeting.

The speaker of the evening, Mr. Fleming, was introduced by Fire Chief Joseph L. Murphy, who said he had heard Mr. Fleming speak twice before on fire prevention and had asked him to come to Kingston to address the local association.

Mr. Fleming said he first became deeply interested in fire prevention work when as a young man he was one of the first on the scene of a school fire in Cleveland in which a large number of children and teachers lost their lives. He told how [illegible] when he and the chief of police [illegible]

No Action Would be Taken Until New Congress Convenes Following Supreme Court Decision Invalidating Law.

SEEN AS WAY OUT

Would Be in Form of Amendment to Constitution; Republican Resolution Killed at Albany.

Washington, Feb. 17 (AP)—Senators Wheeler (D-Mont) and Bone (D-Wash) proposed today a constitutional amendment which they predicted would be "accepted as a compromise" by both opponents and supporters of President Roosevelt's Judicial Reorganization program.

Their proposal—patterned after the "Madison amendment" originally considered during the Constitutional Convention—would empower Congress to re-enact by two thirds vote any Federal law invalidated by the Supreme Court.

Action by New Congress

No action would be taken, however, until a new congress had been elected following the Supreme Court's decision.

Wheeler—an opponent of the President's request for authority to increase the high court's membership unless justices now over 70 retire—suggested that the amendment might be speedily ratified by special conventions called in each state, a method provided in the constitution but rarely used.

Senator Norris (Ind-Neb) and other so-called "Liberals" who have criticized the President's plan were expected by some congressmen to back the Wheeler-Bone compromise.

Wheeler said he would not oppose additional measures for curbing the Supreme Court's power, if his proposed amendment were adopted. He specifically indicated that he might support Norris' plan for requiring a 7 to 2 vote of the court to invalidate acts of congress.

Avoids Much Criticism

Asserting that the Madison amendment had been advocated by many eminent statesmen ever since the Union was founded, Wheeler said it was the only proposal which avoided "many criticisms advanced by both liberals and conservatives."

"This is the only amendment that the Supreme Court could not whittle away by interpretation," he explained. "It is not subject to modification by interpretation in light of the due process clause and other parts of the Constitution.

"At the same time, it is a safeguard against dictatorship or mob-rule, because Congress could not over-ride the court's veto until after an election in which the issues would be fully discussed."

Resolution Killed

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 17 (AP).—A Republican resolution assailing President Roosevelt's court reform program was killed outright today in the privacy of New York's Democrat-controlled Senate Judiciary committee.

The action prevents the measure from going to the floor for debate unless the author, Senator Thomas C. Desmond of Orange county, should seek its discharge from committee.

Since the Democrats who control the Senate by 23 to 22, insist they will not support any measure con-

Historic Church Burns at Albany; Damage $300,000

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 17 (AP).—Undaunted members of the historic Madison Avenue Dutch Reformed Church, destroyed last night by a $300,000 fire of undetermined origin, quickly made plans today to replace it.

"We will rebuild what has been destroyed," said the minister, the Rev. Henry A. Vruwink, who called a meeting of the consistory and board of trustees for today.

Mr. Vruwink, who warned 50 women meeting in a lecture hall of the 55-year-old structure and led them to safety when the fire struck, estimated the loss.

The flames broke out in the cellar but their origin was not determined. Below freezing temperatures hampered firemen. All the city's fire fighting facilities were summoned by a general alarm [illegible] Chief Michael J. [illegible] [illegible] another part of the city.

Besides destroying the Gothic Romanesque Church, erected in 1881, the blaze also destroyed the house next door, formerly used as a parsonage. Mr. and Mrs. Frederick C. Stever and family occupied it.

Annual Meeting of Dairy League

How dairy farmers can adjust their marketing problems to changing conditions was the keynote of the discussion at annual meeting of the Kingston, Kyserike and Stone Ridge locals of Dairymen's League co-operative Association held at Stone Ridge in basement of Reformed Church on Thursday evening, February 11.

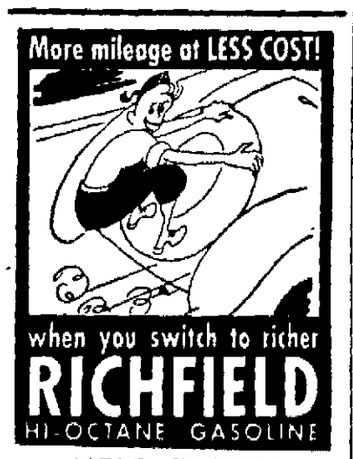

Preceding the meeting a delicious oyster supper was served to the group by the ladies of the church.

The following officers were elected for the coming year: President, Lester B Davis; vice president, LeRoy Davis; secretary and treasurer, L. C. Dixon.

A feature of the meeting was the showing of a new talking picture, "Right From the Start," which told the story of quality milk from farm to consumer. The picture was watched with great interest by all members present, since it demonstrated vividly all the many and various phases of league operations and their relationship to the ultimate consumer.

Speeches were made by Mr. Albright, district president, and Charles L. Allen, both of whom explained their views for the dairy problems.

Certificates, "For Distinguished Service to Agriculture in the field of Cooperative Marketing," were awarded to LeRoy Davis, Lester B. Davis and Hamilton Gillespie, each having been in the league for 20 consecutive years.

The World of Stamps

By QUINTON JAMES

Finland has issued its eighth annual Red Cross set. In fact, only two Finnish semi-postal issues—those of 1922 and 1931—have not been on behalf of the Red Cross.

The 1937 set illustrates three types of sailing vessels used as warships many years ago. Each stamp also carries the name of a Finnish province: Uusimaa on the 1½-marka plus 15-pennia brown; Turunmaa on the 2-m plus 20-p violet brown; Hamemaa on the 3½-m plus 35-p blue.

The Red Cross issues have all been bi-colored, for the cross always is printed in red. The surtax, of course, goes to the Red Cross Society of Finland.

New U. S. Airmails

Intended primarily for use in the transpacific airmail service when it is extended from Manila to China, two airpost stamps of 20- and 50-cent face value are being issued by Uncle Sam's post office.

These stamps use the design of the 25-cent blue issued in November, 1935, when the transpacific service began. But they omit the date. The design shows the China Clipper over the Pacific. The 20-c is green, the 50-c carmine.

Advance sale is set for February 15 at the philatelic agency, Washington. But the agency says it will not prepare covers for mailing on that date, explaining that the advance sale is planned for collectors who want to send covers on the first transpacific flight to China. The flight is to start at San Francisco about March 24.

Jipex Sheets

Since the two special sheets for the Johannesburg International Philatelic exhibition — Jipex — at Johannesburg, South Africa, have been issued, several varieties have been reported.

Each sheet is made up of six stamps, one sheet of the current halfpenny stamps, one of the current penny issue. Each stamp is overprinted "Jipex 1936" in two lines. The top and bottom margins carry three advertisements apiece, while the purpose of the sheets is printed on the side margins.

Some of the varieties are due to difference in the positions of the advertisements, as well as lack of perforations on the right margin.

Nicaragua Color Changes

Another whole set of color changes for Nicaraguan stamps of the type first issued in 1914 has appeared. Since their initial printing, these stamps have come out repeatedly with altered hues.

The set uses two illustrations, the government buildings at Managua and Leon cathedral. The latest colors are: ½-centavo black, 1-c carmine, 2-c blue, 3-c brown, 4-c yellow, 5-c red orange, 6-c violet, 10-c olive, 14-c green, 20-c sepia, 25-c orange, 50-c light brown and 1-cordoba light blue.

The 1928 semi-postal with large numeral of value, 1-centavo, has been changed to green. This stamp is inscribed "Reconstruction."

Rare British Bisects

Two bisects of the Great Britain two-penny blue, first issue, have turned up recently in a solicitor's office in Hull, England. It seems that a clerk, finding himself short of penny stamps, cut a two-penny stamp in half and used the portions. The letters went through the post in the regular manner, one postmarked in 1841, the other in 1842. These rare severed stamps, on cover, are now in the collection of Robson Lowe of London.

18 Ineligibles

Hamilton, N. Y. Feb. 17 (AP) — Registrar Frederick M. Jones listed 18 Colgate University students ineligible for athletics today because of low scholastic grades. He said the group would be ineligible for spring sports but could regain eligibility in fall if exceptional classroom work is done the rest of the year.

There are more than 60 buildings on the University of Alabama campus.

Kingston Post Will Meet Friday

The regular monthly meeting of Kingston Post, American Legion, will be held Friday night, February 19, at 8:15. After the regular meeting there will be refreshments and dancing. Commander Bill Roedell requests all members to attend the meeting. Since the January meeting the Memorial Building has been completely renovated. All walls have been newly painted and all woodwork varnished. A complete new four-spray shower has been installed in a modern tile setting and all rugs have been cleaned and shampooed. The business office can now be compared to any office in the city. Two modern desks, three filing cabinets, new typewriter, four chairs and the latest scheme in lighting enables the officers of the Post to conduct the numerous administrative duties in an efficient manner. The membership of the Post at present is 625. The highest total of membership yet reached in February. The highest previous mark set in February, 1929, was 503. Due to the fine work of Kingston Post on membership, Ulster county has reached second place in the percentage total in the state. Commander Roedell has received a citation from National Headquarters for this work on membership. A full attendance is requested for Friday.

ATTEMPT IS MADE TO FORM MEN'S CLUB AT WALLKILL

Wallkill, Feb. 17—Attorney E. H Hotaling of Walden was guest speaker at a gathering of 50 men at the community hall on last Friday evening. This meeting was to try to organize a men's club.

Mr. Hotaling spoke on "Name Value and Helpfulness in the Church." The Rev. F. R. Bosch also spoke. A committee was appointed consisting of C. E. Terwilliger, L. L. Terwilliger, E. H. Crane and John Helble, to make arrangements for another meeting in the near future, when a name will be selected and officers elected.

Human Problems Cited by Carroll At Comforter Club

Approximately 30 men turned out to the regular monthly meeting of the Church of the Comforter Men's Club Tuesday night to enjoy an address by the Rev. Arthur G. Carroll, of St. James Methodist Church, who spoke on the subject of "Human Problems."

The Rev. Mr. Carroll began his address by pointing out the various problems facing the United States today, namely the supreme court movement, the foreign policy and the possibility of this country being drawn again into conflict with European nations, and the domestic labor problem that has made itself manifest in the various strikes throughout the country.

All of these problems were cited as "Human Problems" and the minister stated that when the human element enters, the problem itself becomes more interesting and more difficult. People are made up of diverse opinions but the spirit is to discuss a question, find the majority opinion, and then work together for the good of all.

"Learn by experience. You will find that the school of life gives a practical understanding of problems," said Mr. Carroll, who further stressed the idea that one must be charitable.

The Rev. Mr. Carroll touched on the idea of this country being founded on the spirit of "rugged individualism," because it was necessary that the pioneer learn to take care of himself.

Social Vision

The Rev. Mr. Carroll brought forth the thought that social vision is absolutely necessary today, because people are constantly rubbing elbows with all sorts and classes. He told his first impression of New York city upon arrival from his western prairie home. The metropolis, he said, was "a big pain in the neck", and he had to go through the process of "growing up into a new state of mind." This holds true of people in the present world of changing ideals.

The thought of a new emergence of minds while only a tremor on the social horizon, still is making its presence known, and when that idea crystallizes in the minds of society it will be more powerful than any army. The speaker said that this new idea was in the process of birth, as indicated by the results of the last presidential election, which was not a battle between two political parties but rather a contest between ideals.

Evidence of Idea

Evidence of this new social idea can be found in the labor fights. The "sit-down" strikes are really a challenge to property rights, according to the Rev. Mr. Carroll, and the question of how much will property rights mean in the future is at stake.

Another symbol of the new idea is the effort to change the setup of the Supreme Court. The speaker stated he was not in a position to give an opinion of what the answer might be, but he was citing this current topic as an illustration. If this emerging social idea becomes anything similar to the state of mind of the European nations, the salvation lies, according to the speaker, in the groups of men, such as men's clubs seeking ways to promote and educate the people of the community in the right methods of living.

"I have no sympathy for men who come to this country of unlimited privilege and endeavor to inoculate the citizen with disapproval. Each individual and each club has a definite work to do.

The address was enthusiastically applauded and an invitation was extended to the Rev. Mr. Carroll to pay another visit. A social hour ended the evening's program.

BLESSED EVENT

The other day we heard about a man who received one of those tiny envelopes that can mean only one thing—a birth announcement. When he opened it, he discovered a telephone number in the space usually reserved for the new baby's name. And in the space for the parents' name was (we blush) our name.

It was a novel way of announcing the installation of a telephone. We like the story, too, because it suggests other places where your telephone number may well be put: on stationery, both business and personal; business cards and advertisements, to mention a few. These days your telephone address is as important as your street address. Perhaps more so at times, for your telephone address can be reached more quickly and conveniently. Security Board Opens Field Office In Kingston Today

Mrs. Anna M. Rosenberg, regional director of the Social Security Board, announced today the opening of a field office in the Opera House building, Fair street, for dissemination of Social Security information for residents of Putnam, Dutchess and Ulster counties.

John Form, graduate of New York University, will be in charge of this office.

The main purpose of the Kingston office will be to furnish employers and employes with accurate information regarding the old-age benefit features of the Social Security Act, to assist in the maintenance of wage records of workers for whom Social Security accounts have been opened and to help in the adjudication of claims. However, it was pointed out that Mr. Form and his staff are ready and willing to assist all interested parties toward an understanding of every phase of the Social Security Act.

Under rules and regulations issued by the Treasury Department, it is necessary for employers to file their first monthly tax return on Form SS-1 on or before February 28.

Employers whose principal places of business are located in these counties should send their returns to Harry M. Hickey, Collector of Internal Revenue for the 14th district, located in Albany.

If an employer has not received an SS-1 Form, he should apply to Mr. Hickey, also.

Mr. Form stated that employers could save time and trouble by keeping in mind the following seven "Don'ts":

Don't send tax returns and accompanying checks to the Social Security Board. All checks and money orders should be made payable to and sent to the Collector of Internal Revenue.

Don't simply send the money order or check, without having filled out and attached the completed Form SS-1.

Don't apply to the Social Security Board for SS-1 Forms. The forms are obtained at the office of the Bureau of Internal Revenue.

Don't send postage stamps, as stamps are not legal tender.

Don't attach a list of your employes, or a copy of your payroll.

Don't write the names of addresses of your employes anywhere on the return.

Don't submit more than one Form SS-1, regardless of the number of employes, nor of the fact that the employe may be working in different states.

Stamp Club to Hold Exhibit for P.-T. A.

Highland, Feb. 17.—At the meeting of the Mid-Hudson Stamp Club held Monday evening with Miss Martha Benesh on Church street, it was decided that the secretary, Oliver J. Tillson, should arrange the exhibit of the club for the meeting of the P.-T. A., on March 8. There was some discussion previous to the decision as to whether to arrange a real exhibit or a general exhibit, and a general exhibit will be made with the members furnishing from one to four pages of special stamps. It is hoped that this exhibit will attract an interest in stamps and the benefits gained by belonging to the club. Mrs. Eber Coy offered antique frames in which the exhibits will be placed. It was suggested that making of the monthly bulletin which is placed in the library be made as a prize contest. A second suggestion was the making up of lists by members of the stamps that they wanted for their collections and filing the list with the secretary, so that all get together on a swap-fest, so that each have something to exchange with someone else. The first list to be of stamps of the 20th century of the United States.

Troy E. Cook gave a talk on U. S. stamp portraits and illustrated by a frame of unused set of bicentennial stamps from a collection of Mr. Tillson. Troy Cook as chairman of the entertainment, had an unusual contest in which advertisements from magazines were pinned on curtains and walls. The members were asked what each picture suggested to them as a stamp, name, denomination, color and date of issue. There were 20 pictures in the collection and the pictures included an American Indian, Arlington Memorial, Grand Canyon, covered wagon train, Lincoln Memorial, elderly lady with flowers, etc. Several members lost out on some six answers, no one guessed all. The junior vice president, Harold Vandervoort, presided for the business with 12 members attending. An invitation was accepted to meet with Mrs. Beatrice Grimm at her home in Modena on February 26, as the next meeting. Refreshments were served by the hostess.

The Mid-Hudson wishes to share these entertaining and instructive meetings with others and welcomes anyone who is interested with no obligation of any kind.

LIONS CLUB HELD MEETING ON MONDAY EVENING

Highland, Feb. 17—Dr. Arthur Horowitz became a new member of the Lions Club at the dinner and meeting Monday evening at the Elms. The initiation ceremonies were conducted by the president of the Newburgh Lions Club, assisted by a second member, William Howells. During the initiation the Lions' code of ethics was read by Irving Rathgeb, a former president of the club.

A feature of the meeting was the presentation of a watch charm to McAlpin Brown in recognition of his services to the club. The charm bore the wording "Presented to McAlpin Brown, A True Lion, by the Lions Club of Highland, February 15, 1937," and the pin of a Lions Club member was attached to the other side of the charm.

Henry Herschberg, district attorney for Orange county, gave a talk on the Dorothy Sherwood baby case, and the discriminations that must be made between justice and sentiment. There were 23 members present with LeGrand Haviland, Jr., presiding at the business meeting. The speaker came through Charles Rogers, a member who resides at Marlborough. Walter R. Seaman is in charge of a speaker for the next meeting.

Reading Circle Meeting

Highland, Feb. 17—The last two chapters of the book "Congo Crosses" were completed at the meeting of the Reading Circle Monday at the home of Mrs. Victor Salvatore. Mrs. A. W. Lent conducted the reading and comments. The next book taken up will be "The American Negro." It was reported that the sum of $10 had been raised among the members for flood relief and would be added to the amount contributed by the congregation of the Presbyterian Church taken Sunday morning and to be sent for relief of the churches of that denomination through its boards. Mrs. Livingston Rhodes was chairman for the collection. Attending were Mrs. Ralph Johnson of New Paltz, Mrs. Oliver J. Tillson, Mrs. Lent, Mrs. Edgar Boyce, Mrs. Matthew Busch, Mrs. Elmer Randall, Mrs. D. S. Haynes, Mrs. Heston Woolsey, Mrs. Salvatore, who served gelatine salad with wafers and coffee. Mrs. West, assisting hostess, was unable to be present. The meeting in two weeks will be with Mrs. Alfred Coutant and Mrs. Edgar Boyce, co-hostesses.

DON'T DELAY, PROTEST NOW.

The fight against the proposal to change the Supreme Court can be won, but it will require the earnest cooperation of every American who is interested in preserving our form of Government. Never in our history have the American people been more deeply stirred. It is not an issue for partisan politics. It transcends party, overshadows religious, racial and all other dividing lines.

Our form of government was set up as a protection against tyranny and autocracy. Our forefathers saw the necessity of having the three departments, legislative, executive and judicial, kept separate and independent. If control of the Supreme Court were turned over to the President, no Dictator of Europe would have more power, less resistance or restriction. Do you want this condition here? Such concentration of power is dangerous even in the hands of the best-intentioned men. The independent branches of the government would become the instruments of the White House. Public respect for the courts and the Congress, so essential in a democracy, would be seriously impaired.

If you want the constitutional safeguards of an independent judiciary retained you should protest and protest immediately. If all those who believe in our form of government will rise up and make their protest heard in Washington, the constitutional balance among the three branches of the government can be preserved. Don't delay. Send your protests to Congressman Philip Goodwin and to Senators Robert F. Wagner and Royal S. Copeland at Washington, D. C.

USING UP FORESTS

Our forests in this country are so nearly depleted that we have come to depend largely on Canada's. The result is beginning to worry the Dominion. The biggest use to which her timber is devoted is paper pulp. The Newsprint Association finds trees being used up "at a prodigious rate", so that Canadian mills during the last five years have cleaned out 4,000 square miles of forest. This would not be so bad if the Canadians felt that they were making money out of it. But they say they are producing and selling their paper at a loss. Canada has got a little more money from her paper than from her gold mines; but as far as profits are concerned, "it is like mining gold, paying the miners their wages and then giving the gold away."

Both countries need paper in ever-increasing quantities, for ever-multiplying purposes. It is obviously going to be a serious problem, with the forests in both countries being used up faster than new growth is produced. The solution may be found in growing raw materials for paper on farms. There may be fiber plants, growing quickly and plentifully, and not exhausting the soil too rapidly, that could take the place of pulpwood. The development of such an industry, too, might be the salvation of agriculture.

EINSTEIN FOR EVERYBODY

Here is a cheering word from Professor Niels Bohr, Danish winner of the 1922 Nobel Prize in physics for his theory of the electrical structure of the atom. In time, says this scientist, everybody will understand Einstein's theory of relativity. At least, every ordinarily well educated person will understand it.

The present confusion, he kindly suggests, is comparable to the confusion created by Copernicus when he published his theory of our universe. A lot of people found the Copernican System very unsettling and beyond comprehension. Then it came to be generally understood. Probably high school science pupils now take it in their stride, and it wouldn't be a bit surprising to learn that Fourth Graders—who can tell you a lot about the sun, moon, stars and earth—know something about Copernicus. Is Prof. Bohr equally hopeful of our ever understanding human nature, politics, or economics?

FLOODS OF BILLS

On the last day for bringing in new bills without a suspension of the rules, 310 measures were offered for consideration of the Ohio legislature. That brought the total of its proposed laws since the first of the year to 395. The Ohio legislature is one of the 42 state law-making bodies meeting in 1937. Although its tidal wave of bills may not be duplicated in them all, the volume will be appallingly large.

There is one ray of hope. Comparatively few bills are finally enacted. Some foolish ones get by; some good ones lose out. On the whole, however, there is sensible elimination and legislative progress. In self-governing states, too, mistakes can be corrected by the same democratic process by which they are made. That can't be done with the mistakes of dictators.

STEEL PAY INCREASE

The proposed $5-a-day minimum wage for Carnegie-Illinois Steel Corporation workers will mean an increase in annual income from $1,300 to $1,560. It will, that is, if the worker receiving the minimum wage works 40 hours a week for 52 weeks. His year's income will be more than $1,560 if he works full time plus overtime. It will be less if he has many lay-offs.

What will this worker do with the additional $260 a year? He'll probably buy something—goods or services—for himself and his family, thereby improving business. Even $1,560 isn't so much that he'll have to be extravagant to get rid of it.

CASCARA AS A LAXATIVE

Every physician is asked at times for simple laxative, something that will gently move the bowels without causing undue weakness. In former days a dose of Epsom salts or castor oil was the favorite laxative (or purgative) used, and when drug manufacturers put some flavoring in Epsom salts and castor oil these preparations retained their popularity. And when the bowel must be emptied quickly and poisons removed from the blood there is nothing more effective than these two common remedies.

However, when the individual cannot be given such strong purgatives regularly, is unable to exercise to stimulate bile flow and bowel action, when something more than a lubricant such as mineral or paraffin oil must be used, or when raw fruits and vegetables cannot be used because they are too irritating to the lining wall of the intestine, then some simple non habit forming remedy is appreciated by patient and physician.

Thus there is one drug, commonly called cascara—the well dried bark of the trunk and branches of a tree—that is used perhaps more generally than any other drug for mild chronic constipation. Its main advantage over the usual purgatives is that it doesn't drive food, partly digested, out of the stomach, nor does it hurry the contents of the small intestine along too rapidly thus preventing complete absorption of the nourishment of the food by the blood. Practically its whole use in the body is to stimulate the colon or large intestine containing the waste, thus driving this waste down ward and out of the body. And in most cases cascara does this without discomfort and without causing diarrhoea.

While the powdered cascara and the fluid extract are bitter, what is known as aromatic fluid extract—flavored with licorice, anise, oil of cinnamon, sugar, and other substances—is very pleasant to take although about twice the quantity is required to obtain results.

Now no normal individual—man, woman, boy or girl—should need a laxative, at least not regularly, nevertheless there are many who are forced to remain seated all day, others who are too old or too ill to exercise, and others unable to eat the ordinary amount of rough fruits or vegetables, to whom the use of this simple non-habit forming remedy would prove a blessing.

ESCAPE IF YOU CAN

BY FREDERICK JACKSON

SYNOPSIS A pistol cracks in Anne Phelps' studio, killing Count Vronski, who had been blackmailing her with love letters. Nearby are Anne, Clarke Bigelow and Karsanakoff, the exotic dancer, who hide the corpse during a party. Later Bigelow and Dr. Austrelitz, the psychologist, move it to Vronski's rooms. Police arrest Thorne Dryden, who hated Vronski, and seek a woman in mink who visited Vronski's place the fatal night. Baroness Dornstatt, who loved Vronski, accuses Anne of the murder, making a scene at a night club.

Chapter 38

'I Did The Killing'

HALF an hour later, Anne and Bigelow left Madge's. In the taxi going home, she relaxed with a sigh against his shoulder and he took her hand in his and held it. But they spoke very little.

When he had dropped Anne, he went on to Austrelitz's house and told him what had happened.

"That woman is dangerous," he ended nervously, "because I'm afraid she's not mentally responsible and I think we ought to go along and see her now and see what can be done to protect Anne."

"Very well, we'll go," agreed Austrelitz promptly.

They drove to the baroness's apartment and asked for her in the big ornate hall. The doorman informed them that it would be impossible to see the baroness for some time to come—that she had been brought in an hour before in a state of collapse and that her doctor and two nurses were at that moment in attendance on her.

For the moment, then, it seemed that she would cause no further trouble. . .

At two o'clock the next day, Bigelow and Austrelitz presented themselves at the Carleton and asked to see Madame Karsanakoff. They were invited to come up, and Karsanakoff received them lying on the big couch in her sitting room, propped up with dozens of finely embroidered pillows and covered with a white bearskin rug. Her hair was loose in a dark silken cloud about her face. The room was filled with Easter lilies in tall vases, and the air was heavy with their fragrance.

"Forgive me that I do not rise to greet you," she smiled. "Under this robe, I have nothing. In clothes, I find it very difficult to relax. Even in loose clothes. And today it is most important that I rest. For if I should not make a success tonight the word would speed across the water to Paris and my career would be very much hindered there. However, the rehearsal went very well last night. Sit down, please. Mariushka told me you wished very much to see me last night?"

"Yes," answered Bigelow, "about that letter in the paper. You saw it, naturally?"

"Naturally," replied Karsanakoff with a faint smile in her eyes.

"As a matter of fact," added Austrelitz, "you wrote it, didn't you?"

He drew out the facsimile of the letter cut from the paper, the copy he had made of it on his own machine, and the letterhead from a sheet of his stationery, and these he laid before her on her knees. She looked at them indifferently and raised her eyes to consider first one man and then the other.

"Yes," she said with a slight shrug. "I did write it. That is quite true. And then—?"

"You had met Vronski before that night, then?" asked Bigelow.

"I had seen the man who called himself Vronski."

"Did you come here because of him?" asked Bigelow. "We thought you might be an agent of your government—if the statements made in that letter are true."

Karsanakoff laughed softly and called, "Mariushka. Mariushka!"

Mariushka came hurriedly to the door and Karsanakoff spoke to her rapidly in Russian. Mariushka laughed—but there was no mirth in her laughter—and with a brief reply in the same language—she withdrew.

'The Only Way I Could Know'

"YOU must forgive me," said Karsanakoff with some compunction. "I am very rude, but what you suggested was so funny I wished to share it with my maid. That I should be an agent for Russia—I who have been in exile since the revolution! That was droll. . . No, I did not come here to track down that man, but everything I wrote in the letter was true, and I wished the police to think somebody had followed him to take vengeance. I thought it might confuse the issue sufficiently to help that poor Dryden."

"But why are you so anxious to help a man you do not even know?" asked Austrelitz quietly.

Karsanakoff looked at him in some amusement. "You ask," she said, "but I think—my dear doctor—you already know, eh? I was anxious to help him because it is not a pleasant thought that one who is completely innocent should be left there in that cell. I have been in a prison cell. I know what it is like . . . But how do I know he is completely innocent, you would ask, eh? The only way I could know, my dear doctor. Because it was I who did the killing."

Both men stared at her. Although she spoke with some emphasis, she seemed neither deeply moved nor gravely concerned over the statement she was making. But she watched them, intently. Bigelow stirred and his eyes searched her face almost incredulously. He was half prepared for her confession, but he had not expected her to make it so coolly. Austrelitz's face revealed nothing; he merely nodded an acknowledgement of her words.

"I hoped you'd tell us about it, frankly," he said.

"I will. I had made up my mind to tell you. It astonished me that you did not ask long ago. I never meant to keep it a secret. You see, I did not plan things as they happened. If I had stopped to think, I should not have killed him there at all—not in Anne's studio like that. But one trouble with me is I cannot stop to think. It often makes my life more difficult." She sighed and reached for a cigarette and lit it.

"You had an old score to settle with him, I think," said Austrelitz. "It was not a new grievance?"

"No," admitted Karsanakoff, "it was not a new grievance. I told you that I had never met him before, but that I had seen him once. I will tell you how it was I saw him. It was in Russia when the revolution began. I was a child—11 years old. He came into the hall of my father's house, leading a mob of drunken, half-crazy peasants, and driving our servants before him. My father was an old man and unarmed. He went to meet them as they stormed in, hoping to reason with them. But Cienkowitz did not wait for my father to speak. He had an axe in his hands and he struck my father down with it, crashing in his skull. My brother was standing beside me on the stairs. We had been in bed, but the noise of their approach had awakened us. My brother was only five years older than I was. As my father fell, my brother rushed forward to kneel beside my father and lift his head; and Cienkowitz struck again with his axe and half severed my brother's head.

"I saw these things with my own eyes. I saw his face—mad with sudden power—exultant as he struck. . . . And I never forgot it. Do you wonder? I can close my eyes now and see it as though it were still there before me!"

The Flight To Paris

SHE drew a long breath and inhaled. Neither man stirred. Her eyes smoldering, her voice low, she went on presently:

"I fainted and my nurse who was just behind me, caught me up in her arms and carried me up the stairs. No one tried to stop her. Cienkowitz was making a speech with one foot on my brother's still quivering body, and the mob had begun to wreck and sack the castle. This I learned afterward. . . When I recovered consciousness, my nurse was dressing me in peasant clothes. I wept and she told me I must be still or I would meet the same fate my father and brother had met. She smuggled me away under cover of the darkness. Other peasants helped her. Some great nobles in those days ill-treated the peasants and the peasants hated them; but my father had been good to his peasants and they did what they could for me.

"When we escaped from our province, my nurse passed me off as her child. I will not describe our flight in detail. It does not matter, now. Eventually, we got across the border and traveled to Paris. My nurse feared for my safety if we remained in Russia—for Cienkowitz had learned afterward that I had been an eye-witness to the murders and he tried to find me."

She pressed out the end of her cigarette in an ash tray on the low stand beside her and lighted another. Neither Bigelow nor Austrelitz spoke. Their eyes did not leave her face.

"In Paris, we met many other Russian refugees. Some of them took us in. Eight of us lived in two rooms. . . . We had fled in such haste we had brought nothing with us. We had to face the question of how to live. In the happier days before my mother died, she had engaged a ballet master for me, to develop my body gracefully and give me poise. She had no idea then that this training — which had been a fad of hers for the moment—was to be our salvation. I got a job in a ballet and earned enough to support us both—Mariushka and me. I took the name of Karsanakoff lest some agent of Cienkowitz might discover me. But Karsanakoff was not my name. My name was Catherine Alexandrovna Vronski."

Karsanakoff tells how and why she shot Vronski, tomorrow.

YOUR INCOME TAX.

No. 21

Deduction For Taxes

Taxes on real estate and personal property paid during the year 1936 are deductible. So-called taxes, which are assessed against local benefits, such as streets, sidewalks, drainage, and other like improvements, are not deductible, for they tend to increase the value of the property and thus constitute cost of a permanent improvement. The federal income tax may not be deducted. The tax on unjust enrichment—a federal tax on income—is not deductible. Income tax, however, paid to the state by an individual on his income is an allowable deduction on his federal income tax return.

Customs duties paid by a person on articles imported for his own use are deductible. Federal taxes on admissions in excess of 40 cents are deductible, but the taxpayer must show that account has been kept of the amount paid. Taxes on club dues are deductible by the member paying them. An individual may deduct the tax on his telephone conversations, radio messages, telegrams, and cables, and on the rent of his safe deposit box.

License fees exacted by a state or city upon certain businesses are deductible as taxes. Automobile license fees are ordinarily taxes and deductible. Postage is not a tax and is not deductible. In general, taxes are deductible only by the person upon whom they are imposed.

Federal estate and gift taxes and state inheritance, estate, legacy, or succession taxes are not deductible on federal income-tax returns. The federal taxes on automobiles, gasoline, and liquor are imposed upon the manufacturer, producer or importer, and are not deductible by the purchaser or consumer. Whether or not the gasoline tax or the sales tax levied by a state may be deducted by the individual purchaser depends upon the terms of the state law imposing the tax, consequently the right to the deduction, as between purchaser and seller, varies in the different states.

Under the Revenue Act of 1936 the amount of excess-profits tax paid or accrued under the Revenue Act of 1935 (as amended) is deductible in computing net income of a corporation for the purpose of both the normal tax and the surtax on undistributed profits.

Field crop seeds, especially of the spring grains, and clover seed stocks will show the effects of the severe drouth of last summer in an actual shortage of many kinds of seeds and in the low quality of other kinds.

Postman Christopher

By MARY GRAHAM BONNER

"NOW you'll be my postman," said Willy Nilly, as he tucked the letter under Christopher Columbus Crow's wing.

"You might almost say this letter was going by air mail," cawed Christopher. "Certsinly I'm flying with it."

And now the Puddle Muddlers waited once more for Christopher's return. Mrs. Quacko had not forgotten to give him another package of food, and he had assured them—after having been through the blizzard—that he would be all right.

Top Notch, the rooster, went down to his General Store and arranged the counters in case he had any early bird customers wanting string and seeds.

The ducks had found a place where the ice had melted in the stream and they took icy baths but didn't stay in the water very long. Rip, the dog, ran over to the Empty House to see that it was all right and that the storm hadn't damaged it in any way, and Willy Nilly was busy in his house.

"Christopher should be back in time for supper," he had told all of them, "and so you'd better not stay out too long."

"We'll be back," they had said.

Sweet Face, the lamb, was taking a nap. Somehow, he had said, he just didn't feel like doing anything.

The Puddle Muddlers were back in time for supper and just a few minutes later Postman Christopher Columbus Crow flew back, carrying a letter under his wing.

"He answered it! He answered your letter!" cawed Christopher.

"Let's hear what he has to say!" they all shouted. "Read us the letter, Willy Nilly."

Willy Nilly read it at once.

Tomorrow — "The Letter."

Exercising His Arms

By BROOKE PETERS CHURCH

The family was exhausted picking up things for the baby. Whatever he took in his hands he threw down, not in temper, but apparently in a reflex action. He threw things as naturally as a kitten jumps at a moving object.

Since he was not yet 18 months old and unable to talk, there was no use arguing with him. All he did when reproved for pitching his toys out of his pen, often breaking the heavier ones, was to smile seraphically and throw something more. His mother, who was new at the game of motherhood, was distressed at what seemed to her the child's destructive tendencies, and tried her best to cure him of a bad habit.

She was not, however, distressed at the baby's other forms of activity. The fact that he was creeping or walking every minute that he was at large seemed to her natural. She knew that he must exercise the muscles of his legs if he was to be an evenly devoloped human being.

The same is true of a baby's arms. They too need exercise. Reaching, throwing, holding on to things, even raising his own weight by his arms, gradually do for the baby's arms what walking, crawling and climbing do for his legs.

During these months of throwing things about, breakable toys and valuable and fragile ornaments should be kept out of his reach. He should have every possible chance to obey his instincts without destroying valuable property. But he should not be hindered from obeying nature's promptings to throw and reach.

He has a great deal to do for himself during his second year, and should be helped, not hindered, in his self education and training.

First Reformed Men's Club

The regular meeting of the Men's Club of the First Reformed Church will be held Friday evening of this week at 8 o'clock. The meeting will open on time and a full and final report of the ticket committee will be given.

Pre-Natal Clinic

The pre-natal clinic will be held at the Benedictine Hospital on Friday, February 19, from 1 to 2. Expectant mothers who attend this clinic will receive medical care and advice.

All Italy celebrates the Fascist victory in Ethiopia as reports from the Ethiopian government at Addis Ababa scoffs at Italian claims and states that Italy's victory was meaningless if a victory at all. Fascist high command in Africa yesterday claimed a sweeping victory over the Black warriors of King Haille Selassie.

A Washington Daybook

By PRESTON GROVER

WASHINGTON—Some of those who will oppose President Roosevelt in his court reorganization proposal were glad he came forward with a scheme to expand the court rather than with some of the alternatives suggested earlier.

They sense it will be an easier issue to fight than a plan to take away the court's authority to pass on certain classes of legislation, or any scheme for requiring a majority of seven of the nine justices before any congressional act could be held unconstitutional.

Senator Van Nuys, Indiana Democrat, advanced what may be part of the opposition strategy. He proposed to separate the President's proposal into two parts, Supreme Court appointments in one, all the rest of the judiciary reform in the other. Van Nuys has worked before with Senator Borah, who is expected to head the opposition. He is not a Borah tag-along, just has some of the same ideas.

• • •

One Idea Liked

ADMINISTRATION leaders won't take to the Van Nuys idea sitting down. The President wasn't being haphazard when he wrapped the Supreme Court program in the sugar coating of court reform.

Right off, most of his opposition liked the proposal for quick appeals to the Supreme Court from district courts on important constitutional issues. Often it is done now. This would make it certain. Rarely does an important constitutional issue stop with the circuit court, so going that path is waste motion.

• • •

As Court 'Friend'

AS TO the President's proposal that the government have the right to intervene in private litigation involving acts of congress, by practice it has that right now. Rarely does a court refuse the government the right of coming in as a "friend of the court," under which banner it can fight on either side it chooses.

Some of the President's critics felt that in advocating court expansion he was "backing away" from a constitutional amendment, fearful of breaking down the federal-state relationship. After all, Mr. Roosevelt, while governor of New York, did deliver a very earnest state's rights address.

• • •

Anti-Lynching

THE inflow of anti-lynching bills has swelled to 28, most of them identical. Representative Sacks of Pennsylvania noted that he introduced one "by request." His office informed us that it was at the request of the Association for Advancement of Colored People. Presumably each one introducing such a bill would be pledged to it.

The government printer estimates printing bills cost $4.75 a page. Each lynching bill has 8 pages, total $38, or $1,064 for the 28 introduced.

In form these bills parallel the one filibustered to death two years ago by southern senators. Police officials in an area where a lynching occurs would be subject to prosecution in a federal court, a $5,000 fine and five years' imprisonment. The victim or his survivors also could sue in federal court for $2,000 to $10,000 damages from the defaulting officials. The attorney general would be required to prosecute both the criminal action and the suit for damages unless the victim chose other counsel for the latter. No pre-payment of court costs would be required of the claimants, thus making it possible for impoverished negroes to get action.

COUNTY Christian Endeavor NEWS

"Y" Night February 24

The Ulster County Christian Endeavor Union will hold an open night at the Kingston Y. M. C. A. on Wednesday night, February 24. The committee in charge of the affair will consist of Burton Streeter, Edward Safford, Irwin Thomas and Robert L. Sisson. The tentative program calls for a swim in the Y pool, activities in the gym, a speaker, and refreshments. All Endeavor members throughout the county are welcome to participate.

County Board Meeting

The executive board of the Ulster County Union will hold a regular session on Monday evening, March 1, at the home of Past President Miss Beatrice S. Powley at 8 o'clock. All officers of the union and presidents of the Christian Endeavor societies, which are members of the union, are asked to be present. Plans for Easter season and spring activities will be made, together with completion of the Easter Vesper Service plans.

Meetings at Flatbush

Regular meetings are held Sunday evenings by the Flatbush Christian Endeavor Society. Sunday's meeting was under the leadership of the president, Richard Davis, who had for his topic, "Strength for the Task". Miss Carolyn Ryder, county missionary superintendent, will have charge of Sunday's meeting.

Annual Dawn Service

The Comforters are making plans for their third annual Easter Dawn service. Douglas Kennedy, in charge of the committee, which includes Mildred Carter and Donald H. Smith, has announced that there will be a change in the selection of the speaker from the announcement of last week. Special music will be a feature. Rehearsals for the play, "Lookin' Lovely", to be given on March 4 and 5, are being held. One change has been made in the cast, returning Miss Alberta Scheffel, a member of successes of two previous years. The business meeting on Friday showed the society is in fine financial condition. Future activities promise greater things. Seven new members were added. The enrolled membership is more than 40. Sunday's meeting featured a discussion on the Bible with Gordon Craig leading an assemblage of 45 people. Miss Florence Hollingsworth will have charge of the prayer meeting on Sunday.

Bethany Christian Endeavor

The new Bethany Chapel Christian Endeavor Society will hold a special meeting on Thursday evening, February 18, at 8 o'clock. The Endeavor societies of the Zena Reformed Church and the Ponckhockie Congregational Church will be present. Albert H. Shultis has charge of this group.

St. Remy Service

The St. Remy Christian Endeavor Society under the direction of Miss Constance Rawls will journey to New Paltz on Sunday afternoon and present a song and prayer service at the county home.

Baptist Fireside Meetings

It has been some time since any information has come in concerning the Wurts Street Baptist society. This week the Wurts Street Baptist group reports that a series of fireside meetings are being held Sunday evenings at homes of the members. These meetings are very informal and are usually preceded by a buffet lunch. Last week's meeting was at the Davis home and 22 members were present. Next week the meeting will be held at the home of C. Lee Terrell on Pine Grove avenue.

Squadron at Clintondale

Last Sunday evening the Lyng squadron of the county union visited Clintondale and conducted the service with about 25 people present. Miss Mary Langwick had charge of the program. Nelson H. Lewis spoke on the subject, "Where Art Thou?" After the service, the Clintondale society served refreshments.

Social at Baptist

The Albany Avenue Baptist Society is planning a social and party for Friday evening, February 19, at 8 o'clock in the church hall. The members of the Fair street society will be the guests of honor. Sunday night's meeting was in charge of Miss Edith Jacobs.

First Reformed Activities

Last Sunday evening the older group of the First Reformed Church Endeavor discussed the topic "The Place of Pleasure in Life," while the younger set had a test on the Bible. Sunday's topic, "How Much Freedom Should a Modern Child Have?", is expected to bring forth a lively discussion.

Party at New Paltz

The long awaited party for the New Paltz Endeavorers will take place on Friday evening and results from a contest between two teams from the society, credits based on the amount of work accomplished. The contest was close and the final results showed only a margin of 18 points for the winners. The topic on Sunday was, "World Cooperation." The news reports were carefully scanned for material to present in defense of discussions which followed.

Legion Auxiliary Meeting on Friday

There will be a regular meeting of the American Legion Auxiliary at the Memorial Building on O'Reilly street Friday evening at 8 o'clock.

The Auxiliary mourns the loss of two members who have died since the last meeting, Mrs. F. B. Mathews and Mrs. Charles Thomas, a Gold Star mother. In addition to the usual business, reports of activities locally and in the flood area will be given.

At the conclusion of the meetings of both the legion and auxiliary there will be a joint social hour with refreshments and dancing.

Plans are complete for the entertainment of the state president of the American Legion Auxiliary, Mrs. Clyde Kernahan, at Ellenville on Saturday. Luncheon will be served at 1 o'clock. Reservations should be made not later than February 15.

Sixteen states have established venereal control divisions in their health departments in a national campaign to stamp out social disease.

HEM AND AMY. THE POWER OF SUGGESTION By Frank H. Beck.

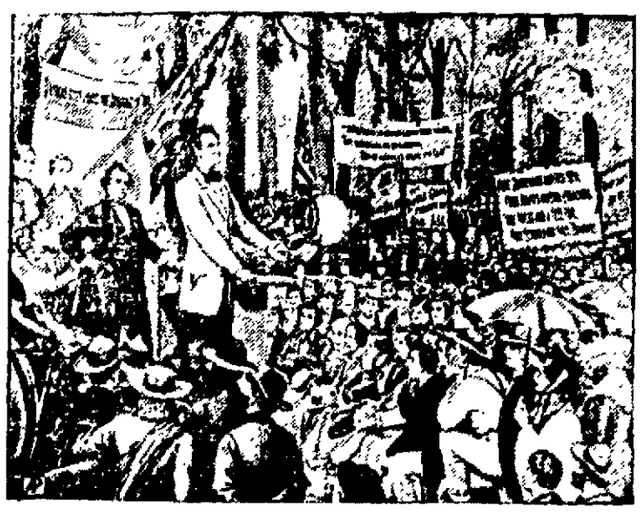

The Presidents vs. The Supreme Court

Lincoln Bests Taney In Three Rounds

HE STARTED IT . . .
Chief Justice Roger B. Taney brought the slavery issue to a head when, in his Dred Scott decision, he held a slave remained a slave even when taken into free territory.

HE CARRIED THE FIGHT TO THE COUNTRY . . .
Lincoln, in his historic debates with Stephen A. Douglas as a candidate for the senate, expressed his reverence for the Supreme Court but challenged Taney's legal logic. "We think," he said bluntly, "the Dred Scott decision is erroneous." Taney held his ground, and a few months after the Civil War started locked horns with Lincoln again.

AND HE WON . . .
Public opinion in a majority of the states eventually supported Lincoln in his opposition to slavery, but it took a bloody war to impress that view upon the south.

By MORGAN M. BEATTY
(AP Feature Service Writer)

(Third in a Series of Four Articles)

Washington — Abraham Lincoln got all the breaks in his struggles with the Supreme Court, and he used them to score three complete victories.

The groundwork for Lincoln's belligerence, ironically enough, was laid by the Supreme Court itself in the ill-starred Dred Scott decision four years before the Civil War.

The ruling was written by the same Roger B. Taney that Jackson had elevated to the highest tribunal 20 years before. Taney was close to his 80th year and the possessor of sound mental and physical health when his decision was written that left Dred Scott in servitude and, in effect, validated slavery north of "36-30" on the ground that the Missouri compromise was unconstitutional.

Senatorial Candidate Lincoln caught the issue early out in Illinois and used it to the hilt against Douglas in their famous debates. The lanky Illinois lawyer announced boldly the nation should decline to abide by the decision.

Lincoln Speaks Out

"We think the court's decisions, when fully settled, should control not only the particular cases decided but the general policy of the country," he argued. "But we think the Dred Scott decision is erroneous."

The towering Taney, austere, now somewhat stooped, but firm, silently held his ground, and it is small wonder that the war was only a few months old before he ran into trouble with the equally determined Lincoln.

The first skirmish came when the military forces arrested John Merryman and imprisoned him in Fort McHenry, near Baltimore, on charges of raising rebel forces.

The prisoner asked for a writ of habeas corpus and got it from Taney, who was sitting as circuit court judge. By authority of Lincoln, the army declined to produce the prisoner. Promptly Taney held the Fort McHenry command in contempt. This decision likewise was ignored.

Taney Strikes Back

The chief justice then proceeded to write an opinion pointing out that the civil courts were still clothed with full authority. He sent a copy to the President.

Shortly after he took this decisive step, the 84-year-old justice remarked on leaving home for court one day:

"It is likely I will be imprisoned at Fort McHenry myself before nightfall, but I am going to court to do my duty."

Lincoln merely obtained an opinion from his attorney general that the President, as commander-in-chief of the army, was acting for the public safety. Taney's orders were ignored.

Meanwhile, the harassed President was absorbed in the war, and allowed three vacancies to accumulate in the high tribunal by 1862.

Lincoln Wins

Whatever the reason, Lincoln suddenly turned his attention to the empty seats, and sent the senate three nominations which were approved in rapid order.

Before the court were the famous "prize cases," involving the right of the union to blockade southern ports. When the decision came down, Lincoln's three new justices swung the tide, and the Union won. The margin was 5-to-4.

The third and last encounter between the Lincoln administration and the tenacious Taney was a minor difference over the deduction by the treasury of 3 per cent of the justices' salaries—part of a government-wide war economy measure.

Taney protested in vain.

"I see no hope," he wrote despairingly to a friend, "that the Supreme Court will ever again be restored to the authority and rank which the constitution intended to confer on it."

Score Stands Even

The fact remained that Lincoln gained his immediate ends—and the Supreme Court was discredited temporarily in the public eye. Years were to elapse before the greatness of Taney as a chief justice would be recognized.

The score of the contests between the Supreme Court and the Presidents then stood at two-all, and one draw. Washington and Jefferson had lost; Jackson and Lincoln had won.

Historians may argue at length about the draw, but the fact remains that both sides could claim a victory. The contenders were President Martin Van Buren, Jackson's political heir to the White House, and a much younger Roger B. Taney.

Van Buren charged the court was invading executive authority when it awarded damages to postal contractors whose contracts had been revoked by Jackson. But his pride was salved when the justices found occasion not long afterward to assert the President's authority was inviolate in his performance of executive duties.

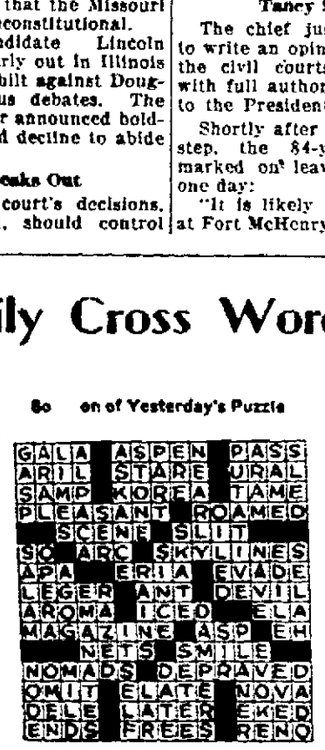

Tomorrow: Latter-day battles between the executive and the judiciary.

At this time when few families are free from colds, it seems timely to check up on our menus for, after all, bodily strength and resistance is dependent on whether food is well chosen. The responsibility for the health of the family rests squarely on the shoulders of the meal-planner. "Eats lightly" means not to overload the stomach, but it does not mean to deny the body necessary sustenance.

Wallkill Club's Patriotic Program

Wallkill, Feb 17—A patriotic program was given at the Woman's Club on Friday afternoon at the home of Mrs Jesse McHugh in honor of Lincoln's Birthday, with Mrs. C. Penny in charge.

The program consisted of readings about Clara Barton and other women's work during Civil War times, "How Civil War Music Came to Be," and a review of the book, "Girl's Life in Virginia." Mrs. W. E. Webster reported on a paper, "Banner of Freedom" of 1866, and told of experiences of her aunt and uncle, who made a trip from the south during the Civil War. An article on "Lincoln's Boyhood" was read by Mrs Janet P. Brown. Several members wore costumes of Civil War days, loaned by Mrs. Warren V. Deyo. After Mrs. Penny told about "Dummy clocks", reported to be set at 8 15 p. m., the time Lincoln was shot, the program was closed by singing the "Star Spangled Banner."

At the business meeting, Mrs. McHugh reported three things she thought would be of interest to the members of the club from the mid-winter conference of the State Federation in Hotel Roosevelt, New York city. They were that Alfred Smith did more for the progress of education while governor than any other of New York state's chief executives, that the kindergarten bill before state legislature can not be voted on in two years, and the movement against the new "narcotic". Letters were read from past Presidents Mrs C W. Smith and Mrs. B. S Galloway, which were received too late for the "silver service dedication" at the last meeting. Mrs. Annie Thompson, chairman of the Red Cross drive, reported $660 90 solicited in Wallkill and vicinity.

After the meeting tea was poured by Mrs. Nellie Roosa and refreshments served with Mrs. Janet Brown as social chairman of the afternoon.

The next meeting of the club will be a "health program" and Dr Frank Laidlaw, district health officer of Middletown, will be the speaker. This meeting will be held in the evening at 8 15 o'clock at the home of Mrs C. L Ronk on February 26. Both men and women of other organizations have been invited to attend

Hollywood
Sights And Sounds

—By Robbin Coons—

HOLLYWOOD—Unreel parade: Constance Bennett, newly signed by Hal Roach, was talking not long ago about forming her own company ... Maybe she still will, but the comedy plant has options for future films after the late Thorne Smith's "Topper." ... A star's own company is risky business, as Charles Ray, Clara Kimball Young, Gloria Swanson and others—who tried it—can testify.

Gloria is coming back, signed by Metro for a role they say is tailored to her measure . Incidentally, there's a heavy out here named Jack Adair who used to work with Gloria in the Essanay days. Says he was engaged to her once, and was the one who introduced her to Wallace Beery, whom she married. Gloria was 17 then, in the old Sennett regime, and Wally was a Sennetter too.... This is movies. Gloria was on the heights when Wally was skidding, and Wally made his come-back while Gloria sloped ...

Speaking of Wally, he is on loan from Metro to 20th Century, and he had his set closed to visitors ... until he missed the sound of pencils scratching on note paper, and went "up front" to explain that he didn't mean the press . only sightseeing visitors . Remember the time Beery impersonated Garbo as a "gag," at one of the local premieres?

Wayne Morris, the kid with the grin, is wearing a toupee for "Kid Galahad" and he's only 22.... He's not bald ... They just wanted to change his hairline, and they have ... Also they've used make-up on him for the first time.... "Trying to make me handsome," the boy behind the grin says ruefully .. Make-up men long have succeeded in making all the movie girls look alike, but this is the first time on record they have gone for taking away masculine individuality.

Bouquet department: There isn't a brighter, more genuine face in Hollywood than little Deanna Durbin's.... The new streamlined Bette Davis is an optical pleasure. ... Hear that Ida, Kay Francis's ex-maid, is plotting stardom for Doris Nolan, her new mistress.... And is confident Doris, when she gets there, will stay as sweet as she is....

Scott Kolk's farm at Houghton, Me., has a railroad station but no town to go with it.... Neighboring South Portland has a town but no railroad station.... And the word is that Kolk, who acquired the station with the farm, may be approached as a public-spirited citizen, and so on ...

Since the fire at 20th Century the "No Smoking" signs on sets mean it ... Ren from Tahiti and his manager, Mildred Luber, have gone their separate ways after six years of touring

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—
Without Calomel—And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

The liver should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You get constipated. Your whole system is poisoned and you feel sour, sunk and the world looks punk.

Laxatives are only makeshifts. A mere bowel movement doesn't get at the cause. It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." Harmless, gentle, yet amazing in making bile flow freely. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name. Stubbornly refuse anything else.

MAKE YOUR PARTY GAY

A howling success your party will be—if you play Jolly Gestures. With every guest adding his share to the fun, no one can be bored

Start this side-splitting game yourself with a ridiculous gesture. Stroke an imaginary beard and roll your eyes archly, or pretend to sing with operatic gestures. The person next to you must do just what you did, then go through the motions of pulling taffy, tweaking his nose, or making any other foolish gesture that occurs to him

The next person must repeat, in the right order, the two gestures which already have been made, and add one he's invented. And so on around the room. Any one who forgets a gesture or muddles the order is "out." The game goes on hilariously until only one player is left. He wins the fur-lined cake tin!

After this rest your guests' aching sides with a quiet game like Compliments. Call it Blarney at a St. Patrick's party.

The leader goes around collecting compliments for It who sits in a corner. "Some one says you have beautiful eyes," says the leader. "John?" asks It. "No, but some one else says you're a marvelous dancer." The game goes on until It guesses who made the flattering remark. The flatterer now takes It's place

Our 40 page booklet, GOOD PARTIES, shows you how to be the fun-expert of your crowd. Suggests attractive easy-to-fix food. Active and quiet games for holiday and birthday parties, anniversary celebrations, showers, church, club and school entertainments. Learn to entertain easily, inexpensively, merrily

Evening School Closing Exercises

The Kingston Evening School held its closing program Tuesday evening in the high school auditorium. Two plays under the direction of Mrs. Anne B McNeils were presented by the members of the public speaking class.

The first play was "How the Story Grew" by O W. Gleason. This clever satire was given in five scenes, each of which was laid in the kitchen of a different interested neighbor A simple story told by one friend grew in proportions until it became a story full of intrigue and danger. Those taking part were:

Mrs. Brown ..... Marjorie V. Spatz
Mrs. Green ..... Mary E Connelly
Mrs. Bean ..... Martha E. Bingman
Mrs. Rice ..... Lillian P. Gallagher
Mrs. Doolittle ..... Sally Krum
Mrs. Snow ..... Mary E. Flannery
Mrs. White ..... Kathryn Fogarty

During the intermission, Frank L Meagher, principal of the school, introduced Superintendent B. C. Van Ingen, who spoke a few words on the changing ideas of education in regard to the curriculum, especially the changes that have occurred in the evening school which is emphatically a school for adults. He also expressed the hope that new courses would be requested next year, as one of the objects of the school is to give the students subjects they desire to study. Mr. Van Ingen congratulated the school on a very successful year, not only in attendance, but also in the number of students enrolled.

Mr. Meagher presented the diplomas to the instructors to be given out individually, and thanked the guests of the evening school for coming and supporting the members of the public speaking class.

The second play which followed was Augene Pilot's "Two Crooks and a Lady". Convincingly arguing the inherent weakness of underworld characters the play brought out the superiority of honest courage and the results when courage meets cowardice. The cast for this play was:

Miller, the crook ..... Edward Cunningham
Lucille, the maid, in league with him ..... Martha E. Bingman
Mrs. Simms-Vane ... Madeline Reis
Miss Jones ..... Mary E. Flannery
Police Inspector .. Morris Golishsky

Balthasar Barmann of Sterling street was guest of honor at a surprise birthday party Friday night, given at his home by a number of friends.

Mrs. H. F. Whitney of Washington avenue entertained at a bridge party on Monday evening for her daughter, Miss June Whitney, whose marriage to William Glidersleeve of Schenectady will take place next month.

Benefit Card Party

Judie's Tea Room sponsored a benefit card party Monday evening, February 15, at which eight tables of pinochle and bridge were in play. The proceeds were given to the local Red Cross for the use in the flood relief fund.

Ulster County Auxiliary

The American Legion Auxiliaries of Ulster county will entertain in honor of their department president, Mrs. Lelia Kernahan of Nunda, Mrs. Ida N. Ashby of New York city and Kingston, the department secretary and treasurer, also the third district chairman, Mrs. Maud Hafley of Delmar. Arrangements have been made to have a luncheon at the Mitchell Hotel, Ellenville, February 20, at 1 o'clock. Reservations should be made with unit presidents before February 18.

The unit presidents are asked to give condensed reports of unit activities from September to February.

Mrs. Kernahan's address to the auxiliary members of Ulster county will afford them an opportunity to become acquainted with the various activities of their organization. A cordial invitation is extended to all the units of Ulster county to attend and meet the department president personally.

Mrs. Mabel Benson of Ellenville, chairman of the Ulster County Committee, will preside at the meeting after the luncheon.

Triangle Dance

The girls of Rip Van Winkle Triangle Club, No. 81, Daughters of the Order of the Eastern Star and Masons, will hold an informal dance at the Clinton Ford Pavilion this evening. Music for the dancing which will start at 9 o'clock, will be furnished by the regular Clinton Ford Orchestra. Prices have been made low so that the general public may attend. Refreshments are included in the admission charge. Tickets may be purchased at the door. The Misses Edna Beatty, Emily Howard, and Ewa White are in charge of the arrangements. A large crowd is expected as a number of tickets have been sold.

Lehman Clears Two Boys of Chair; Slew Elderly Banker

Ossining, N. Y., Feb. 17 (AP)—Two upstate New York youths — 19 and 20 years old—paced happily their death house quarters in Sing Sing prison today, permanently clear of the electric chair's shadow.

Both the younger, Henry H. Stevens, and Charles A. Waterbury were told last night of Governor Lehman's commutation of their death sentences to life imprisonment. They were to have died tomorrow night for the murder of Charles Salisbury, 78-year-old chairman of the board of the Lacona, N. Y., National Bank.

Stevens, a resident of Euclid, when told of the commutations, cried "I'm so happy."

"Am I happy? Hurray," yelled Waterbury, Mattydale youth.

The governor's action was taken only a short time after parents of both youths had visited them. They left the prison after tearful farewells.

Stevens and Waterbury shot Salisbury when he failed to hear their command of "Hands up" during an attempted holdup of the bank May 7, 1936. State troopers captured them in a woodland hideout the day after the killing.

Soft Coal Miners Ask 30-Hour Week

New York, Feb. 17 (AP)—The United Mine Workers today demanded a 30-hour work week for 400,000 miners in the soft coal industry.

The mine union, opening negotiations with bituminous operators on terms for a new wage and hour scale agreement, also demanded:

A wage increase of 50 cents a day for miners paid by the day;

An increase of 25 cents a ton for pick mining;

An increase of 13 cents a ton for coal loaders and 2 cents a ton for cutters;

A guarantee of 200 days work each year; and

Two weeks vacation with full pay—miners paid by the ton to receive $6 a day during vacations.

Morgan Resigns Post

New York, Feb. 17 (AP)—W. Forbes Morgan, in accepting the presidency of the Distilled Spirits Institute, said today he had resigned as treasurer of the Democratic national committee, effective March 15. He will begin his duties as head of the liquor institute—a position which he described as comparable in the liquor industry to that of Kenesaw M. Landis in baseball—at once.

Senators Offer Compromise Plan

demning the President's recommendations, defeat of any attempt to force out Desmond's resolution appeared a foregone conclusion.

"Purely Political"

The committee's action was not unexpected, inasmuch as Chairman Philip M. Kleinfeld previously had said:

"This is not the place (the legislature) for discussion of such a measure. It is purely political."

The committee is composed of nine Democrats and five Republicans.

Defeat of the resolution in committee blasted Republican hopes of obtaining non-partisan action on condemnatory proposals. Leaders ordered delay in consideration of the resolutions until public sentiment is permitted to crystalize in a direct bid for Democratic support.

In view of the Senate judiciary committee action, the Republican-controlled assembly group is expected to report favorably on a similar measure introduced by Assemblyman Dutton S. Peterson, Schuyler county.

Republicans have a 76 to 74 majority in the Assembly.

HURLEY

Hurley, Feb. 17.—On Monday evening, February 15, members of the Berean Class entertained their husbands and friends at a Valentine party at the Brink home. Dartball and many other games were enjoyed. A bountiful supper was served at 11 o'clock and many valentines were received by all. Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. Wessles Ten Eyck, the Rev. and Mrs. Chester Chilton, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Smith, Mr. and Mrs. George Brown, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Stauble, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Myer, Mr. and Mrs. John Brink, Mrs. Isaac Rosa, Mrs. Angus Rowse, Miss Sarah Brink, George Woester, Miss Juanita Snyder, Marvin Lane, Miss Dorothy Rowse and Andrew Decker. On departing all thanked the Brinks for their kindness and most enjoyable evening.

The men's dartball team entertained the men from the Albany's Avenue Baptist Church of Kingston on Monday evening. The local team lost all three games to the Kingston team.

The Rev. Mr. Freer occupied the local pulpit on Sunday morning. The Rev. Mr. Chilton was at the Fair Street Reformed Church where he conducted the morning service.

The ladies' missionary society held its monthly meeting on Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Charles Gustafson.

On Friday last the school was closed in observance of Lincoln's birthday.

The Boy Scout Troop 20 of Hurley which has recently been organized entered the contests at the municipal auditorium last Saturday evening and were the proud winners of the Chariot race.

New Rival

Boston, Feb. 17 (AP)—Harold S Vanderbilt's sale of his 1934 America's Cup Yacht Rainbow to Chandler Hovey of Boston gave Vanderbilt's Ranger, now building at Bath, Me., a new rival today in the competition to select a 1937 defender.

Newman Club Met Tuesday Evening

Tuesday evening the Newman Club held its regular meeting in the Knights of Columbus Building. It was announced that the play, "Palms", was to be given by the student body of the Academy of Saint Ursula on Tuesday afternoon, February 23, and Thursday evening, February 25, in St. Mary's auditorium. No further plans were made for the Newman Club dance. It was suggested that the Newman Club have a card party after Easter. The Rev. Father Moore asked that study clubs, consisting of 10 members each, be formed. Those wishing to join were asked to see Father Moore after the meeting. It is the purpose of these clubs to the members to talk over truths of the faith and to understand more clearly those things which they do not fully understand.

After the business meeting had been closed the members went downstairs and witnessed tournaments held in ping pong and pool. At the next meeting the semi-finals will be held in these games and at the following meeting the final games are to be played.

Stamp Colection Attracts Attention

Chester A. Van Denark, truckman of 91 First avenue, whose avocation is stamp collecting, has a display in the window of the S. L. Storrey furniture store, 455 Broadway showing a complete collection of Red Cross stamps and Christmas seals. The stamp sets are complete dating from 1907 to 1919 Red Cross issues and the 1920 to 1936 Christmas seals taken over by the tuberculosis committee to raise funds for combating that disease. Mr. Van Denark's collection is attracting much attention from high school pupils who pass the store and from stamp collectors who admire his exhibit.

Red Men Lease New Tepee in Kingston

The recently reorganized Minnewaska Tribe, No. 130, Improved Order of Red Men, on Thursday evening will hold its first meeting in its new tepee at 460 Delaware avenue. The Red Men have leased the use of the club rooms of the Polish American Club to hold their regular meetings during the year. As this is the first meeting in the new rooms it is expected that there will be a large attendance of Red Men.

Milk Hearings.

New York, Feb. 17 (AP)—The joint legislative committee to investigate the milk situation will hold public hearings in the state office building, 450 Center street, New York, Thursday and Friday, February 25 and 26. Senator Joseph D. Nuhan, Jr., announced today. State Senator George F. Rodgers of Rochester is chairman of the committee.

Firemen Hear Talk On Fire Prevention

reached the school it was to find that the only exit had doors that opened in instead of out and they were forced to use an axe to break open the panels only to find the bodies of the children stacked high against the door and in the corridor as they had rushed to the exit in an attempt to escape with the doors opening in and those in front pressed close against the door it was impossible to open it. It was a sight that he would not forget as long as he lived. That school tragedy was what had caused him to take up fire prevention as his life work.

Mr. Fleming said that there was no such thing as a fireproof building. He said that over 60 per cent of the fires start in the basement and 17 per cent in the attic. There were 1,400 homes burned down every 24 hours in this country.

He said that ordinary fire escapes on the side of a building were a fire hazard under certain conditions and the only safe fire escape was the enclosed one with fire doors leading into it from each floor. As most fires started in basements the fire would break out through the basement windows and shoot up the side of the building with the result that the fire escape would become red hot from the flames and no one would be able to walk on it. He also condemned certain types of home incinerators that are located in basements which furnish a fire hazard.

Mr. Fleming said he could not make it plain enough not to use gasoline for a cleaning fluid. The only safe way to use it was in the tank of your car. He also warned against the use of any liquid like gasoline for cleaning clothing or other household uses as there was the constant danger of explosion and fire. Keep gasoline out of your home was his warning.

In closing he spoke of air conditioned buildings, and related incidents of fires in hotels and theatres that were air conditioned. He warned his hearers that if they intended to have air conditioned homes that they should first see to it that the air conditioning units were fire proof and that fireproof material was used both inside and outside the units. Some of the air conditioning units he had seen in his travels about the country were the worst deadly fire hazards he had ever seen.

Mr. Fleming was given a rising vote of thanks for his instructive address.

The meeting then adjourned to the Central Fire Station where refreshments were served and a social hour enjoyed.

Postmaster Examination

The United States Civil Service Commission has announced an examination as a result of which it is expected to make certification to fill a contemplated vacancy in the position of fourth class postmaster at Lake Katrine. Receipt of applications will close February 26.

Whale Sinks Ship

Yokohama, Japan, Feb. 17 (AP).—Following a collision with an enormous whale, a 102-ton Japanese whale boat flashed an SOS today, reporting she had sprung a bad leak and was sinking. Two steamers reported they were rushing to the rescue.

Economical Feeding Will Be Explained

Ulster county dairymen are advised to give greater consideration to furnishing their cows more nutrients from home grown roughages, particularly good quality hay and improved pasture, since they commonly furnish the cheapest nutrients available in New York.

The feeding value of different qualities of hay will be fully discussed at the two-day Farm Bureau feeders' school scheduled at the Grange hall, New Paltz, Tuesday and Wednesday, February 23 and 24.

Professors W. T. Crandall and L. L. Turk, Dairy Specialists from Cornell University, will also discuss the use of home-grown grains in the grain mixture for the dairy herd, particularly the use of the new farm grown protein supplement, Cayuga soybeans. The most recent discoveries of importance and interest to livestock feeders will also be discussed during the school.

Two morning and two afternoon sessions are scheduled at the Grange hall. They will start promptly at 10 o'clock in the morning and will close at 3 o'clock in the afternoon. None of the material given in any session will be repeated, and it is necessary to attend the first meetings, if one expects to get the fullest benefit from the discussions that follow, says County Agent Albert Kurdt, who urges every dairyman to attend all of the sessions of this feeding school. This will be a thorough course in dairy cattle feeding and is the first time such a school will have been held in Ulster county.

AID TO RELIEF OF PSORIASIS SYMPTOMS

The itching and irritation of psoriasis is readily relieved by Resinol Ointment, an old formula containing ingredients well known to physicians for their effectiveness.

To get best results, wash off the scales with a pure, mild soap. Resinol Soap is gently medicated and free from excess alkali. Use it with warm water, then rinse and pat dry.

Spread Resinol Ointment evenly over the surface, letting it remain for several hours during the day and overnight. Note how quickly its oily base enables the Resinol medication to soothe the angry skin.

Even when the rash begins to fade, do not stop using Resinol too soon. The eruptions of psoriasis have a tendency to recur. For this reason it is advisable to continue Resinol applications to soothe the irritation, as long as any trace of it remains.

Get Resinol Ointment and Soap at any drug store. Sample free. Write Resinol, Dept. 19, Balto., Md.

BANK ON THIS WARDROBE

As an investment in appearance the depositor above has done all right for himself. Strictly a "townie," from the rounded crown of his bowler (derby to you) to the tops of his black wax calf shoes, he's "right." Color might even show his double breasted overcoat and sharkskin suit as a warm brown, and still the black foot and head pieces would be correct. His gloves are fawn hogskin, although he must have had one off to get the cigarette from his case. Red-spotted is his black wool tie, white the starched collar, and solid color (pick one yourself) his shirt. Even money says his shirt cuffs are of the double fold French variety, with gold links. The teller behind the bars would probably be promoted to cashier if he wore an abdominal holder-inner

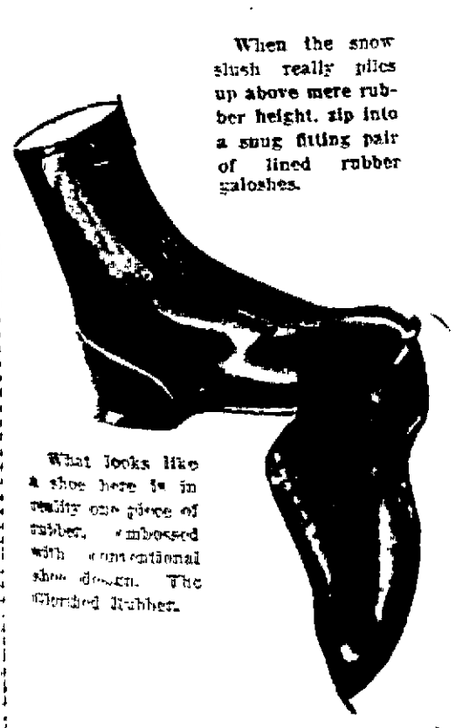

A faint overplaid on a rugged tweed is here shown in a roomy double-breasted ulster.

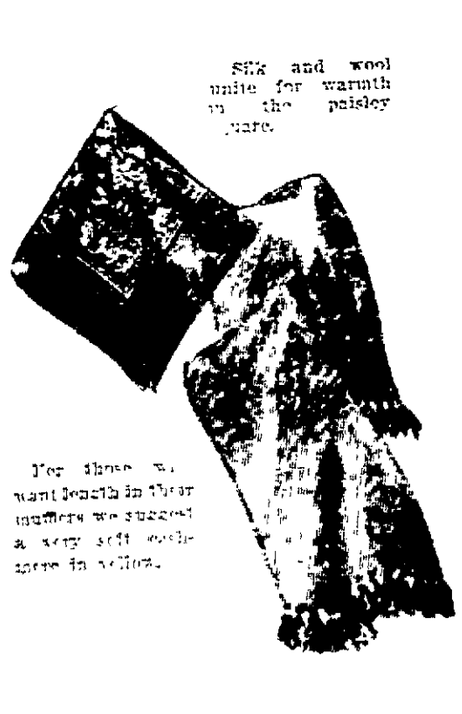

The combination of peaked lapels with a single-breasted two-button suit is a good one especially when the fabric is of hard finish such as sharkskin.

Almost any solid color is smart when the glove is rib knit and tapered for warmth at the wrist.

When the snow slush really piles up above mere rubber height, zip into a snug fitting pair of lined rubber galoshes.

What looks like a shoe here is in reality one piece of rubber, embossed with conventional shoe design. The Glendale Rubber.

Silk and wool unite for warmth in the paisley pare.

For those who want beauty in their mufflers we suggest a very soft woolen scarf in yellow.

President Hails Farley As 'Major Prophet'

President Roosevelt, referring to Postmaster General Farley's 100 per cent accurate forecast of the presidential election last year, said history "may even add his name to the distinguished list of major prophets." The occasion was a dinner in Washington honoring Farley's work as Democratic national chairman. Left to right: Vice President Garner, the President, James Roosevelt, and Farley. ATTRACTIONS

At The Theatres

PREVIEWED

Today

Broadway: "Along Came Love." The author of "Seventh Heaven" delves into the glory of love in the one day feature at the Broadway, the sentimental story of a shop girl who dreams of a Prince Charming and sables and gets them. Irene Hervey, Charles Starrett, H. B. Warner, Doris Kenyon and Irene Franklin head the players.

Kingston: "Let's Make a Million" and "Crack Up." A comedy and a tragedy link together and form the double feature bill at the Kingston Theatre, the first a well played and laughable bit of foolishness with Edward Everett Horton starred, the second a grim, reckless melodrama with Peter Lorre featured.

Orpheum: "Valiant is the Word For Carrie." A vibrant, gripping and completely enjoyable film is to be seen at the Orpheum in this story of a woman whose past is none too savory, yet who takes two small children under her wing and builds them a home and gives them ideals to live for. It is a beautifully done photoplay, so real and human that it possesses many moments of sheer dramatic beauty. It also marks the camera debut of Gladys George of the stage and she is supported by an excellent cast of seasoned Hollywood players.

Tomorrow

Tomorrow: "Lloyds of London." The rise of Lloyds to a power in the world through insurance based on marine risks is coupled with the rise of England to the greatest power on the sea and the picture at the Broadway is the story of two English boys whose destiny has much to do with the future of the British empire. One is Jonathan Blake, who becomes a power at Lloyd's, the other is Lord Admiral Nelson, who dies in his sea victory at Trafalgar. The setting is laid at the time of Napoleon when he was sweeping all before him on the continent and the protection of the British fleet was the only reason the Corsican didn't hold the crown of the British empire in his grasp. Also written into the script is a love story that eventually finds happiness for the hero and heroine of the drama. A combination of fact and imagination, this production is offered with all the fanfare and ballyhoo that marks a costly motion picture and 20th Century-Fox has outdone itself to make this show a standout movie triumph. A cast of thousands is featured with Madeleine Carroll, Freddie Bartholomew, C. Aubrey Smith, Virginia Field, Tyrone Power and Sir Guy Standing. Henry King directed. A well staged historical romance.

Modena

Modena, Feb. 17—Mrs. Edgar Clarke, of Milton, spoke on the subject of "Psychology," to members of the Modena Home Bureau unit, at a meeting at Mrs. Parker Hull's home in Clintondale, on Monday afternoon. Mrs. Clarke mentioned "Fear," and questioned those in her audience concerning any certain fear which they may have, its cause and effect on the individual. Several different fears were expressed, and discussed. The next meeting of the unit, when Mrs. Clarke will speak on "Emotion," and its resulting conditions, will be held Monday afternoon, March 1, at Mrs. Joseph Hasbrouck's home in Modena. Those present at Mrs. Hull's were Mrs. Jonah Rhodes, Mrs Werner Pasjberg, Mrs Siah Roosa, Mrs. Winfield Jenkins, Mrs Philip Baker, Mrs. William Bahret, Miss Irene Sickler of Clintondale; Mrs. George Alheusen, Mrs. Eugene Paltridge, Mrs. Eber Coy, Mrs. Eber Palmer, Mrs. Ira Hyatt, of Ardonia; Mrs. Orville Seymour, Mrs. Joseph Hasbrouck, Miss Glennie Wager, Mrs. Ransel Wager, Mrs. Myron Shultis, Mrs. Theodore Ross of Modena, also the hostess, Mrs. Parker Hull.

The refreshment committee of the Modena Home Bureau's card party to be held Wednesday afternoon, February 24, at Mrs. Myron Shultis's home, will meet with Mrs. Shultis on Thursday afternoon of this week, February 18, to arrange for the refreshments.

A lesson on "Nutrition" will be held Wednesday morning, March 10, followed by an afternoon session, when the third lesson in "Grooming" will be given. Local leaders will be in charge and pot luck lunch will be served at noon.

Accord

Accord, Feb. 17—Mrs. A. L. Sahler was hostess at a meeting of the Accord Home Bureau on Wednesday afternoon, February 10. This was the third lesson on the art of grooming project and was on care and arrangement of the hair. Mrs. Sahler was assisted by Mrs Townsend Osterhoudt and Mrs Earl Schoonmaker. Mrs Sahler discussed care of the hair, types of faces and points to consider in accentuating good features and those to lessen bad features. Many coiffeurs were re-arranged which proved more becoming to the person. A social time was enjoyed during the changing process, which proved interesting as well as amusing as everyone helped in suggesting how the hair should be combed.

A collection was taken for the Brigden Scholarship Fund.

The next meeting will be a business meeting and tea at the home of Mrs. L. M. Decker. At this meeting those interested in joining a book club are to discuss and decide on their books. Also bring suggestions for projects you want next year.

Those present were: Mrs. H. M. Eppes, Miss Bertha Coons, Mrs. A. L. Sahler, Mrs. M. P. Palmer, Mrs. Arthur Davis, Mrs Walter Voight, Mrs. L. M Decker, Mrs John Osterhoudt, Mrs D. E. Schoonmaker, Mrs Elmer Smith, Mrs. William Countryman, Mrs. Vernon Barnhart, Mrs. Earl Schoonmaker, Mrs. P. W. Gazlay, Mrs. William Curry, Mrs. Townsend Osterhoudt, Miss Edna Baker.

Kingston Unit

The Kingston unit of Home Bureau will have its second lesson in "Understanding Each Other" Friday, February 19, at 1:30 p. m., at the home of Mrs. Clyde Hutton, 19 Alcazar avenue. The subject will be "Factors Back of Our Conduct." Mrs. Edgar Clark of Milton will have charge of the class. All members are urged to attend. Afternoon tea will be served.

Hundreds of tons of structural steel for the new state armory at Schenectady have been swung into place during the last month, but to date not a single riveter's hammer has shattered the peace of the surrounding neighborhood. Within a hundred yards of the site two hotels and a Y. M. C. A. house hundreds of persons who would not have known that a large steel-framed building was being erected were it not for the change of the skyline.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

By CLAUDE E. JAGGER

New York, Feb. 17 (AP).—Demand for rails and low-priced specialties distinguished a rising stock market today.

Pushing forward for fair gains were Central Foundry, Paramount, American & Foreign Power, International Telephone and Libbey, McNeill and Libby.

Early afternoon found attention focused on carriers. Up fractions to around a point were New York Central, Pennsylvania, Illinois Central, Santa Fe, Baltimore & Ohio and Delaware & Hudson.

Gains of about as much were turned in by Chrysler, Studebaker, Reo, Hudson, Montgomery Ward, U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, United Aircraft, Douglas Aircraft, Boeing, Sears Roebuck, North American and Anaconda.

Losses running to a point or more were suffered by American Telephone, Republic Steel, General Motors, Goodrich and International Harvester.

"Seven Seas," Figurative Term

The term "The Seven Seas" is not intended to be taken literally, but is a figurative term denoting all the seas and oceans of the world. When Rudyard Kipling gave the name to a book of his poems he mentioned that it might be used in this sense or to include the seven great oceans, the North Atlantic, South Atlantic, North Pacific, South Pacific, Indian, Arctic and Antarctic. Areas are: Pacific, 68,634,000 square miles; Atlantic, 41,321,000; Indian, 29,340,000; Arctic, 4,781,000; Antarctic, 5,731,350. Average depths are: Pacific, 12,960 feet; Atlantic, 12,200; Indian, 11,136; Antarctic, 10,800; Arctic, 5,160. Exact dimensions cannot be given. The Dead sea in Palestine is 47 miles long, 10 miles wide, 1,080 feet deep and has an area of 360 square miles; its surface is 1,300 feet below sea level.

Hands Reveal Character

Anyone who sits with hands loosely clasped in the lap is of a quiet, well-balanced mind, while the nervous person tries to control nervousness by tightly gripping the hands together, states a writer in Pearson's London Weekly. One who has a habit of clasping hands with fingers entwined is not keeping strictly to the truth, while one who partially covers the mouth with a hand while talking has certain knowledge, but is trying desperately not to reveal it. A person who remains seated while conversing with another who is standing finds it very difficult to tell an untruth and any attempt to do so is easily detected by the person standing.

Saint Bernard of Mastiff Family

Unlike many other breeds, the origin of the Saint Bernard is a bit hazy, but early historians have agreed this type of dog belongs to the Mastiff family. The ancient records produce evidence that Mastiff dogs were brought from Asia, and used by the Romans as herders of sheep, besides being kept as watch dogs at army outposts. It has also been established that Roman soldiers used large dogs to guide sheep over the mountain passes, one of which was called the Saint Bernard Pass, no more than a pack mule path. A hostile tribe destroyed this path and cut off travel over the mountains around 950 A. D.

Rebels Menace Core Of Loyalist Defense

(By The Associated Press)

Insurgent forces hurled strong offensives on two fronts of the Spanish civil war today, both menacing the core of government territory.

In the south, the forces of Generalissimo Francisco Franco forged steadily towards Valencia, temporary seat of the government, apparently with no defensive army to obstruct their path.

The new line on the southern front reached east of Motril, about 50 miles from Malaga on the coast.

The insurgent army fighting to complete the isolation of Madrid, attacked by air and land to break the Valencia highway line from the capital. Officers reported heavy government casualties on a stretch of the highway between Arganda and Morata De Tajuna.

But the government said a counter-offensive on this front was turning the tables.

The government forces were reported to have held their positions on the Valencia highway despite the fury of insurgent attacks and to have gained aerial victories, thwarting enemy raids on towns and highway traffic in the area.

At Valencia, the government took a new mandate of absolute power from all popular front parties and mobilized every possible unit of manpower to resist the insurgent offensive.

All military classes of the last five years were drafted for immediate war service.

With the deadline set for the isolation of the Spanish struggle by international patrols starting at midnight February 20, France rushed armed guards to strengthen the vigil on its Spanish frontier.

Drunken Driver Given $25 Fine

The sheriff's office was notified at four o'clock this morning that a car had left the road near the Walker place on the Plank Road, struck a chicken coop and overturned.

Deputy Sheriff Ray Winne made an investigation and arrested Daniel Murman, 29, who gave his home address as 114 Seymour street, Auburn. Murman was arraigned before Justice John Watzka of East Kingston on a charge of driving while intoxicated. He was found guilty and was sentenced to pay a fine of $25 or spend 25 days in the Ulster county jail. In default of the fine he was committed to jail.

10 Thought Killed In Fall to Bay from Golden Gate Span

San Francisco, Feb. 17 (AP).—Ten men were believed to have been killed when steel and wooden construction forms crashed from the vast Golden Gate Bridge today and plunged the workers into the water.

The victims fell 200 feet and bridge officials said they did not believe the men could have survived.

Eight bodies were thought to have been swept to sea and a report said a Coast Guard boat had picked up two men. It was not known whether they were alive.

Workers were stripping temporary steel and wooden forms from the bridge deck when a carrier wheel snapped.

The forms swayed dizzily and then crashed into the safety net.

The net, swung under the bridge to prevent workers from toppling to their deaths, was unable to withstand the terrific strain.

With a roar, the mass dropped and tore away 2,100 feet of the center span net.

The twisted wreckage and helpless men struck the water at the entrance of San Francisco Bay.

Strong tides swept the victims to sea, while rescue boats put out in an effort to recover the bodies.

Sad-Eyed Saint Bernard Most Romantic Large Dog

Probably the most romantic portrayed dog of all the large canine family is the sad-eyed Saint Bernard. This dog gained its reputation down through the years as a rescuer of man in the dangerous mountain passes of the Swiss Alps.

However, the Saint Bernard did not originate amid the lofty peaks, where later it was destined to become a hero on countless occasions. In short, this dog did not first come to light in Switzerland, asserts a writer in the Philadelphia Inquirer.

Folks have become quite familiar with the Saint Bernard because it has frequently been pictured in a setting of snow and ice, with brandy cask suspending from a huge collar. The eyes of the dog express sorrow, probably because of the "haw" or third eyelid.

These dogs are one of the giants of dogdom. When full grown, the average Saint Bernard weighs from 170 to 210 pounds.

The Saint Bernard is a graceful mover, chiefly because of its broad feet, which encase closed up toes that are well padded.

In fact, these dogs have a "fifth toe" on their hind feet. This is not a freak of nature which frequently crops up in other breeds. The "fifth toe" is a developed dewclaw that really is actually another toe. The surefootedness has been developed chiefly among the Swiss types, that have been used for rescue work.

A concerted effort to find strains of cabbage resistent to yellows, described as the most destructive disease of cabbage, and at the same time entirely acceptable to the grower and the market, will get under way next spring when extensive cooperative tests between the divisiols of plant pathology and vegetable crops of the Experiment Station at Geneva and the U. S. Department of Agriculture will be started.

BROADWAY TRAFFIC DELAYED 15 MINUTES

Shortly after 1 o'clock this afternoon as a long freight was pulling over the Broadway crossing of the West Shore railroad one of the couplings on a freight car broke and traffic was held up for 15 minutes. While waiting for the freight to be able to proceed cars were lined up in double rows on both sides of the crossing and extending up and down Broadway for a considerable distance.

Postal Rate Once Caused Long Debate in Congress

In the year 1790 there were but 75 postoffices in the United States, the majority of which were confined to the cities. The Postmaster General then reported to the congress that he had turned over $37,935 to the Treasury department for the year's receipts, observes a writer in the Philadelphia Inquirer.

A stabilized postal rate was adopted in 1816. A single one-ounce letter, carried within 30 miles, cost 6½ cents, over 30 miles and under 80 miles, the charge was 10 cents; over 80 miles and under 150 miles the rate was 12½ cents; over 150 miles and under 400 miles the postoffice received 25 cents. A letter or parcel weighing more than one ounce cost four times the usual rate for the distance it would travel.

For many years after the schedule was adopted by congress the people pressed for a reduction. On several occasions enterprising congressmen introduced bills to reduce the rates, but a watchful Postmaster General succeeded in convincing the legislators that such measures were foolhardy to adopt, as a drop in revenue would mean an increase in subsidizing funds granted by the congress to maintain postal service.

After constant pressure congress passed a bill which became effective on March 3, 1845. A half-ounce letter, up to 300 miles, was delivered for 5 cents; over 300 miles the rate was 10 cents; with an additional charge for every half ounce over the original weight. Newspapers were delivered without charge up to 30 miles.

"Muck-Amuck," Indian's Bread in Lord's Prayer

The Pacific Northwest Indian of two centuries ago had no word for bread, something unknown to him, so he asked for "muck-amuck" when he recited the Lord's prayer, according to an authority in the Detroit News.

The "muck-amuck," states the writer, covered his daily ration of meat, fish and other food.

Another Chinook version of the Lord's prayer, one of several used, brought to light by a writer for the American Guide, was found in some long-forgotten documents.

"Ne-si-ka Papa klaxta mit-lite kopa Sach-a-lie," it begins.

A literal translation read:

"Our Father who dwells on high, good for our hearts your name, good you chief of all people; good your heart to such country as our up above: give us all days our food, and stop remembering all our sins we make to them, suppose sin against us; throw far away from us all evil."

The various Chinook version of the Lord's prayer, it is said, came into being about 1740 from the influence of early missionaries.

Not until later did the Indians come to use a word for bread, "sapo-lil."

The Chinook was a kind of esperanto language in which all tribes could talk somewhat with each other, and was in use before the white man came.

Studies of the Bureau of Labor Statistics show that as the income of the average family increases, expenditures for automobiles rise to higher levels than any other item in the family budget.

Gale Swept City But One Fire Here

Tuesday evening the city was swept by a minifture gale which fortunately did no damage. While the wind was sweeping through the streets about 8 o'clock that evening an alarm of fire was turned in from Box 18, to which the fire department responded. The alarm was caused by a chimney fire in the house of Louis Passante, 43 Ponckhockie street. With the high wind that prevailed the city was fortunate in not having a fire break out in a house or industrial plant as it would have proven a difficult matter to fight the fire.

Republicans Favor Cut in Vehicle Fee For State Motorists

Albany, Feb 17 (AP).—New York's Legislature submitted Democratic Governor Lehman's "million dollar budget" to public scrutiny today coincident with Republican disclosure of a proposal to save motorists $10,000,000 next year by reducing vehicle registration fees.

The reduction could be effected, Republican spokesmen said, by slashing a similar amount off the Governor's proposed debt service appropriation of $65,000,000 for the 15-month period beginning next April 1.

Last year the Republican Assembly majority lopped $11,000,000 off the debt service appropriation in order to eliminate the fourth cent of the gasoline tax and made provision for payment on a calendar year basis running from April 1, 1936, to April 1, 1937.

Governor Lehman discarded the April to April payment plan in his budget now before the lawmakers, however, and insisted upon an appropriation to cover 15 months, or until July 1, 1938.

Republicans contend provision for payment from April to July is not necessary, and the proposal now being discussed would pass along the $10,000,000 saving to motorists through registration fee reduction.

Nearly 3,000,000 motor vehicles are registered each year in New York, producing a revenue of approximately $33,000,000.

RIFTON

Rifton, Feb. 17.—Next Sunday at the M. E. Church it will be "Jr. Order American Mechanics" Sunday and all members of the order as well as their friends are urged to attend. Services will be in charge of the pastor, the Rev. Mr. Chandler, and an interesting message is sure to be delivered.

Illini Nellie Goes After A World Title For Cows

AMBITIOUS NELLIE

To be world champion butter-fat producer is the goal of Illini Nellie, 9-year-old Brown Swiss at the University of Illinois. She's already produced within about 100 pounds of the latest record, 1,213.1, set by Cathedral Rosalie of Oneonta, N. Y.

MILK "IN THE RAW"

Nellie's daily diet consists of about 25 pounds of hay, 15 of grain, 20 of beet pulp and 5 of silage—all carefully weighed.

COOLING THE ENGINE

It takes water, too, to keep a cow on the championship trail. Nellie gets hers by pressing this automatic fountain.

RESULTS

Thrice daily Nellie adds to her butter-fat score. She has until March 15 to surpass Rosalie's record and she has already set a world mark for Brown Swiss cows on three milkings daily by producing 106.3 pounds of milk in one day.

Arrest 2 Brothers On Assault Charge

Alfred Smith, 24, and his brother, Elmer, 21, both negroes of Chatham, were arrested by the police Tuesday on warrants sworn out by Scott Van Demark of this city, charging them with assault in the third degree. This morning both cases were set down for a hearing on February 23.

Fred Dahlem of this city, arrested on a charge of disorderly conduct, was given a suspended sentence on his promise to behave in the future.

Bird's Driving Force Is Due to Downward Stroke

The driving force which propels a bird through the air is entirely due to the downward stroke of its wings, according to Naturalist S. F. Aaron, writing in Scientific American. Aaron further states that the feathers of a bird's wing remain tightly closed on the down stroke, but spread slightly on the up-stroke, thus permitting the wing to be raised without much resistance.

As Aaron describes the curious mechanism of wing structure that makes this possible, each of the large "flight feathers" turns or pivots on its individual quill, much as the shutters on a blind may be turned. The quills of these feathers are not in the middle, but nearer the forward side. On the up-stroke these pivot automatically in their socket, allowing the wing to recover its stroke upward through the air without tending so much to retard the bird's progress. But the feathers cannot pivot thus on the down-stroke because the broad rear edge of one feather is held against the front edge of the next.

MENUS OF THE DAY

By MRS. ALEXANDER GEORGE

Pecan Roll Recipe

(Tea room favorites — but they can easily be made at home.)

Dinner Serving Four Or Five
Chilled Fruit Juices
Broiled Veal Chops
Buttered Spinach
Creamed Cauliflower
Pecan Rolls Butter
Celery Pickles
Chocolate Meringue Pudding
Coffee

Pecan Rolls
(The Sticky Kind)

1 cake compressed yeast	¼ cup sugar
2 tablespoons lukewarm water	1 cup boiling water
1 teaspoon salt	3 tablespoons fat, melted
2 eggs	4 cups flour

Mix yeast and lukewarm water for 5 minutes. Add salt, sugar and fat to boiling water and cool until lukewarm. Add with rest of ingredients to the yeast mixture. Blend thoroughly. Cover and let rise until doubled in size. (About 4 hours will be required in a room of 72 degrees temperature.) Roll out the dough until it is half an inch thick. Spread with the filling. Roll up like a jelly roll about 1½ inches thick. Cut off one-half inch slices and place, flat sides up, in a shallow pan lined with syrup. Cover and let rise about 3 hours or until the rolls have doubled in size. Bake 20 minutes in a moderate oven. Turn out, with the sticky side up.

It is usually advisable to divide the dough into 2 parts and make 2 rolls as they are more easily handled.

Filling

4 tablespoons soft butter	¼ cup pecans
1 cup brown sugar	1 teaspoon cinnamon

Mix ingredients and spread on the soft dough.

Syrup

1¼ cups dark brown sugar	1 teaspoon vanilla
¼ cup water	¼ cup pecans
2 tablespoons butter	¼ teaspoon salt

Boil sugar and water 2 minutes. Add rest of ingredients. Cool and pour into baking pan.

Two types of flax are produced in Canada. One type is cultivated for the production of fibre as used in the manufacture of linen; the other is grown for the production of flexseed from which linseed oil is extracted.

Ships Collide, One Sinks Near Coast

Portland, Ore., Feb. 17 (AP).—The gale-swept Columbia river claimed the Italian motorship Feltre early today in a collision with the freighter, Edward Luckenbach, which went aground on Cottonwood Island after the crash.

The Feltre sank up to the promenade deck, an authoritative source said, and "at least" half of the crew of 40 was rescued.

Crashing as one of the worst storms in years swept the mouth of the Columbia river with winds howling up to a velocity of 45-55 miles an hour, and two ships came together about 40 miles down the slowly-bending Columbia from Portland.

What happened to the rest of the crew of the Feltre was not learned immediately. The 38 men in the crew of the Edward Luckenbach were reported uninjured.

The Luckenbach's bow was reported stove in.

The crash occurred as the tug Warrior was towing the Feltre. The Warrior stood by to render aid to the Feltre's crew and the Coast Guard cutter Onondaga was dispatched from Astoria, Ore.

Visibility was poor. Reports at Astoria, some 80 miles farther down the river, said the storm blowing there was "by far" the worst of the winter and conditions were described as terrible.

NEW HURLEY.

New Hurley, Feb. 17.—Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Harland and little son, Edgar, Jr., of Otisville called at the home of Mrs. Isaac Sutton and daughters on Friday afternoon.

Mrs. Perry DuBois and mother spent Friday afternoon with Mrs. Deborah Shay and Robert Tremper and daughter at Modena.

Miss Della Brown, who is teaching on Long Island, spent the week-end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Brown.

Mr. and Mrs. William DePew and family spent Sunday with Mr. DePew's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jacob DePew, near Plattekill.

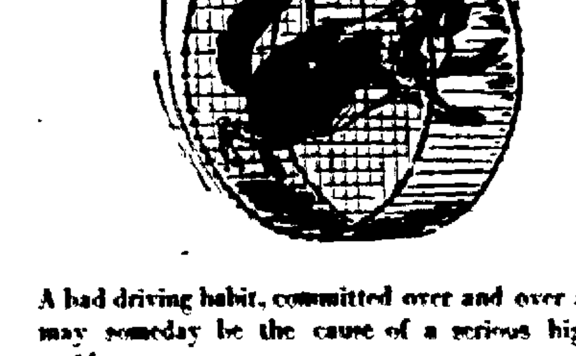

Mrs. George Eckert and mother, Mrs. Jennie Alsdorf, were recent guests at the home of Mrs. Simon DuBois at Modena.

Miss Jeannette Van Arendonk of New Paltz spent the week-end at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Brown.

The meeting of the Young Women's Club, which was to have been held at the home of Mrs. Edward Humphreys last Saturday afternoon, has been postponed indefinitely on account of the illness of the president of the club, Mrs Beulah Thompson.

The T. N. T. Club of the New Hurley Reformed Church will present the play, "Just Plain Folks," at the church hall on Thursday and Friday evenings, April 8 and 9. This play is being coached by Mrs. Wendelling of Sherwood's Corners.

Prof. Floyd E. Carlson, of the New York State College of Forestry at Syracuse University, will give an illustrated lecture on "Woodland Wonders" in the high school assembly Thursday morning. The educational value of this interesting feature will be enhanced by the showing of colored slides depicting the wonders of the forest lands. Prof. Carlson's program tomorrow morning will provide the students with another educational feature to enliven the assembly programs.

The Maroon Photography Contest rules and regulations governing selection of the outstanding snapshots submitted by high school students as their photographic masterpieces were announced. The Maroon, widely renowned annual year book of the local school, is supervising the contest in an effort to stir up interest among the amateur snap shot artists of the student body. The rules and regulations are as follows:

For the best (in the opinion of the judges) informal picture connected with school life, away from or at school, a first prize of two dollars ($2.00) will be awarded and the snapshot will be published in the Maroon. Three second place awards of one dollar ($1.00) will also be given. These prizes, as well as those gaining honorable mention, will be presented to the fortunate snapshot artists in a future assembly.

The judges decision will be final.

All pictures submitted become the property of the Maroon.

Contestants are not limited as to the number of entries.

Pictures intended solely for insertion in the Maroon which are paid for by the clubs or by the Maroon, are not acceptable.

Pictures submitted will be judged both on their merit and on their appropriateness of subject matter.

Forty-three boys were selected to compose the makeup of the Boy's Glee Club for the coming term. The successful candidates survived a series of vocal elimination auditions and gained much-coveted admittance to this outstanding male musical body. The names of the boys who were selected for the Glee Club are: L. Boice, R. Breithaupt, C. Busmer, W. Bushnell, G. Bushnell, H. Canfield, G. Coley, W. Darling, J. Deegan, J. DeVine, H. Ennist, C. A joint assembly of the Prisma and Homecon Societies was held recently in the high school auditorium. The members of the societies met to discuss plans for the staging of a dance and the huge gathering set an attendance secord for a club meeting. Both Prisma and Homecon, prominent girl student organizations, adopted a proposal to hold a joint dance on April 2 in the high school gym. The societies will act as cosponsors of the event.

MONKS PLAN RESCUE CAMP IN HIMALAYAS

Expedition Suffers Hardships to Aid Travelers.

Aosta, Italy.—Fears for the safety of the expedition of the famous hospice situated on Grand St. Bernard ridge, which was engaged in erecting a similar institution on the perpetually snowbound ridges of the western section of the Himalayas, have been allayed with receipt of news about the expedition by the head hospice on the Grand St. Bernard, in the Valais canton, Switzerland.

The mission of the monks of the Grand St. Bernard—a religious congregation founded in the Eleventh century—is to rescue unfortunate climbers who are caught in snowstorms or fall on glaciers while attempting to cross the dangerous pass between Italy and Switzerland. This mission is carried out with the invaluable help of sturdy dogs, especially trained.

The expedition, sent by the head hospice to the Himalayas three years ago, comprised two monks, Fathers Coquoz and Melly, a number of lay guides and helpers, and a dozen of the celebrated St. Bernard dogs.

All the members of the expedition and all the dogs are safe and in good health, despite the many hardships connected with their particular mission, according to a report from Father Coquoz, just received by the hospice headquarters.

The expedition had started the erection of a hospice on Mount Si-La, a pass more than 12,000 feet high, for the relief of the thousands of pilgrims who cross that ridge annually to visit the famous Tibet convents. Frequently avalanches or other high altitude accidents bring death to many of these pilgrims.

Ill luck befell work of the expedition, for the edifice, already built in part, was engulfed in a big avalanche and destroyed.

Undaunted, Fathers Coquoz and Melly and their helpers early last summer started the construction of another hospice at La-Tza pass, which is about 400 yards lower than the other crossing. The work had to be suspended when winter set in.

Experiment With Vines.

This did not mean a period of lethargy for the expedition. Its members descended down the valley in the large fertile plateau of SiaoWeisi, where they started several agricultural experiments, especially with cereals and vines. All the efforts of the "monks of the snow"—as the natives call them—have been successful, particularly with vines, which have yielded 54 varieties of grapes.

A peculiar feature of the expedition's activities has been its freedom from molestation by bandits who infest those regions. Having experienced the beneficial effects of the monks' mission, the bandits presumably thought it advisable to leave the missionaries alone.

The populations, thankful for the monks' agricultural teaching, are flocking in large number to the experimental fields to learn and have volunteered to help in the completion of the hospice as soon as the weather will permit.

When lime is deficient in the soil, legumes cannot cooperate with nitrogen-fixing bacteria to form nodules on the roots, and the crop as a result will be poor or fail completely.

Lyceums Take 3 From Keystones

Three straight games were won by the Lyceums Tuesday at St. Peter's alleys, over the Keystones in their best five out of nine games for a turkey dinner.

The winners rolled 2,218 against 2,070 for the Keystones, whom they will meet again at Emerick's. This year's series is the second annual, the Lyceums having defeated the Keystones for a turkey dinner in 1936.

PORK DINNER STOPPED HUNGARIAN SPEEDSTER.

New York, Feb. 17 (AP).—What a meal potpie was to Paavo Nurmi, a pork dinner was to Miklos Szabo, the Hungarian runner, who made his American debut at Boston last Saturday.

Choc Sportman, coach of the Texas Rideout twins, revealed the incident which paralleled the famous Nurmi mistake of a dozen years ago. Nurmi's veal potpie, consumed before an important 5,000 meter race here in 1925, caused him to collapse and suffer his only defeat of an American tour at the hands of Willie Ritola.

Saturday Szabo partook liberally of pork and gravy some three hours before starting a two-mile race at Boston. When Don Lash crossed the finish line in world record time, the Hungarian was nowhere to be seen. Sportsmen and those who heard him discuss the dinner may explain his poor showing.

Latest figures on the American Basketball League, released by President John J. O'Brien, show the Jersey Reds leading the club standings with a percentage of .800 and Kingston in fifth place with .417 trailed only by the New York Jewels.

Although the Colonials are far down on the list, Phil Rabin leads the scorers for both the first and second half of the league schedule, and Carlie Husta is well up among the honored point makers. Husta is third in the second half, and fourth in the rating for the combined scoring.

The statistics:

Standing of Teams

	Won	Lost	Pct.
Jersey Reds	8	2	.800
Philadelphia	6	3	.667
Original Celtics	6	5	.555

Canfield and Brooks Tonight

New York, Feb. 17 (AP)—Only young Arthur Canfield of Syracuse stands between Lewis Brooks of Philadelphia and his second straight national amateur pocket billiards championship.

Brooks disposed of the tournament's oldest player, 60-year-old J. Howard Shoemaker of Douglaston, N. Y., last night to increase his lead. Tonight he faces Cranfield, the youngest entry, in the final clash of the round-robin.

The Philadelphian has won five of six games and Cranfield has won four out of six. Between them in the standing is Edward C. Rogers of Glen Cove, L. I., with five won and two lost. A defeat for Brooks tonight would throw this trio into a deadlock for the title.

Brooks spoiled Shoemaker's 60th birthday celebration last night by walloping him 125-63 in a 35-inning match. One big run turned the trick after both played cautiously at the start. In the 27th inning Brooks pocketed 43 balls to take a commanding lead.

Shoemaker finished the round-robin with four victories and three defeats for a fourth-place tie with Herbert Courtney of New York.

Giants Take Off For Training Camp

New York, Feb. 17 (AP)—The New York Giants, figuratively speaking, throw out the first ball of the 1937 baseball season today when the first official group, headed by President Horace Stoneham, sails for the Havana spring training camp. Secretary Eddie Brannick left yesterday to make arrangements for their arrival.

Sailing today are Treasurer Leo J. Bondy and seven players, Jimmy Ripple and George Davis, outfielders; Mickey Haslin, infielder; Jimmy Sheehan, rookie catcher, and William Benne, Tom Ferrick, Cliff Melton and William Yarewick, all recruit pitchers.

The rest of the squad, except Manager Bill Terry, who is confined to his home at Memphis by a cold, is due to assemble at Miami tomorrow and to reach Havana Friday, a day ahead of the New York group. In Terry's absence, Coach Pancho Snyder will take charge of training activities.

APOSTOLI AND KRIEGER BOX AT HIPP TONIGHT

New York, Feb. 17 (AP)—Two middleweights who made more of a hit with the fans while losing than did their victorious opponents meet at the Hippodrome tonight in a 10-round prelude to Friday's title fight in the same division.

Young Fred Apostoli of San Francisco and Solly Krieger, New York veteran, both are rated as leading contenders for the 160-pound crown despite their recent defeats. One of them may wind up fighting the winner of Friday's 15-round bout at Madison Square Garden in which Freddie Steele of Tacoma, Wash., puts his title at stake against Eddie (Babe) Risko, ex-champion from Syracuse, N. Y.

Ask for "Czar" to Interpret Rules Of Basketball

New York, Feb. 17 (AP).—A basketball "czar" to insure uniform rules interpretation would solve the problems confronting coaches, players and officials in the opinions of many leading eastern and mid-western experts.

The appointment of a "Judge Landis" of basketball was proposed by Cy Kritzer of the Buffalo Evening News at a recent meeting of nearly 200 metropolitan college and high school coaches and writers.

The plan met the ready approval of such leading authorities as Nat Holman, City College coach; George Keogan of Notre Dame, and Herbert Reed, coach at Western State Teachers, Kalamazoo, Mich., and chairman of the National Basketball Coaches' Association's rules committee.

The "czar" would have power to see that use of the block, one of the sport's most controversial subjects, the three-second rule and other regulations received uniform interpretation. Under Kritzer's plan, the "czar" would go into various basketball centers at least twice a year to hold interpretation meetings and return later to see that the game was being played the same way in New York as in Chicago, Denver, San Francisco and New Orleans.

The man would be selected by the National Basketball Writers' Association, now in the process of formation, and his salary paid by the colleges cooperating.

Leading up to the idea, the New York and Buffalo writers proposed to enlist other associations in a plan to send delegates a day in advance to the national rules committee meeting at Chicago March 14-16. The writers would draw up their own platform of rule revisions to be presented to the committee.

Joe Louis Boxes Natie Brown in Kansas Tonight

Kansas City, Feb. 17 (AP).—Joe Louis, the Brown Bomber, was to arrive today for his 10 round battle with Natie Brown of Washington tonight.

Brown, who emerged on his own feet at the end of 10 rounds in a previous meeting in 1935 with the Bomber, appeared in perfect condition. His weight, close to 200 pounds, was seven or eight pounds more than when he fought Louis before.

The bout will be broadcast over a national hookup (NBC Blue Network). The main event was scheduled to go on at 10:05 p. m. (C. S. T.)

Matchmaker Frank Gatto predicted a $20,000 to $25,000 gate, with Louis receiving 40 per cent, Brown 15 per cent.

PRELIMINARIES ON STEELE-RISKO CARD.

The fifteen round bout between Freddie Steele, middleweight champion, and Eddie (Babe) Risko, former title holder, at Madison Square Garden on Friday night, is well backed with a formidable array of fighters in the preliminary bouts. There are four six-rounders and an opening four to complete the bill and some lively old shindigs are in prospect.

Atilio Sabatino, the sensational young Puerto Rican middleweight, will tackle the hard hitting Young Terry from New Jersey in the first six, while Walter Woods, from the Gas House district of New York's East side, will take on Johnny Rossi, another local fighter, in another six. Tiger Jack Fox, a hard clubbing fighter from Spokane, will mix with Tut Bruin from Texas and Leroy Brown from Charleston, S. C., will face Art Sykes from Elmira in another clash.

Lots of Action Expected in Colonial-SPHA Game Tonight

Tonight the Colonials and Philadelphia Hebrews clash at the Kingston Municipal Auditorium in the regular Wednesday American Basketball League attraction which is expected to draw a capacity house. Starting time is 9:30 o'clock.

The Hebrews, always good box office magnets here, will come to town with the intention of rolling up another win over the Colonials as they did last Saturday, and the Morgenweckers are out to stop them.

Frank Morgenweck wants tonight's game as badly as if it were for the championship. "We must win tonight. I was unable to make the Philadelphia trip over the week-end and from reports we should have taken that contest. Kingston fell down towards the end because there was nobody to drive them.

"I know we can beat the SPHAS and we'll prove it tonight. That week-end defeat must be avenged."

The spirit of the clubs augurs a stiff battle, a real classic that should show as much action as any game played at the auditorium this season, and Kingston has played some red hot ones at home.

Eddie Gottlieb will have all of his stars on parade, Shiky Gotthoffer, Inky Lautman, Red Rosen, Cy Kaselman, Gil Fitch, Mot Goldman and Red Wolf.

Morgenweck has not announced his starting lineup but it probably will be the same as usual, Saunders and Stanton, forwards; Hearn, center, and Husta and Rabin, guards. Pip Koehler, Lefty Kintzing and Jimmy "Joe" Brown will be on hand for relief duty.

Rabin despite Kingston's slump stands out as the leading scorer of the league, and Carlie Husta is up among the first four. Tonight's game will mean a lot to them individually to preserve their standings.

Corky Stanton was not with the Colonials on their week-end jaunt and his presence tonight may mean a lot toward upsetting the Phillies.

Newburgh To Play Kingston High At Auditorium Friday

Newburgh Free Academy's sterling quintet comes to town Friday night to engage Kingston High in the outstanding scholastic cage attraction of the current campaign. The traditional rivals will tread the spacious Auditorium court in the vital contest of the DUSO League court slate with first place honors at stake. Newburgh has dropped but one game in six loop encounters and is regarded as the outstanding threat to the Maroon and White's supremacy. The local redshirts barely nipped the Academyites in a thrill-packed 26-25 struggle to open the league schedule. Charley Bock faded through for the winning pushup with but eight seconds to go and the Klasmen launched the season with a victory after a perilous session.

Battery A Wins At Tannersville

Without Mike Carpino, ace scorer in the lineup, Battery A defeated Tannersville town team there Tuesday night, 37-32, with Spitzer, Streeter and Geisler doing a nice job at crashing the wicket for 32 of the Artillerymen's points.

Tonight at the 156th Field Artillery Armory, Manor avenue, the Soldiers will take on the Tannersville CCC quintet, and hope to roll up another victory.

Last night Eggleston did the bulk of the Tannersville scoring, making 16 points on seven fields and two fouls.

Too Much Snow for Winter Carnival

Salt Lake City, Feb. 17 (AP).—Eager to keep America first "up in the air," potential record breakers gathered here today for the national amateur ski championship Sunday and Monday.

A recent snowfall was so heavy at Ecker Hill, 20 miles eastward, that it will be necessary to remove several tons to put the slide in shape. Ordinarily at such meets snow for the track has to be hauled for miles. Ecker Hill, scene of the Olympic trials two years ago, is 450 feet from takeoff to base.

Principal contender from abroad—Sigmund Ruud of Norway, twice winner of the world Olympic championships—will arrive tomorrow.

FIGHTS LAST NIGHT.

(By The Associated Press)

New York — Saverio Turiello, 140½, Italy, outpointed Joe Pennino, 146, Brooklyn (10).

Los Angeles—Lee Ramage, 193, San Diego, knocked out Joe Bauer, 192, Cleveland (10).

Seattle—Al Hostak, 156, Seattle, knocked out Leonard Bennett, 150, Detroit (8).

St. Petersburg, Fla. — Ray Lyle, 155, Akron, and Frankie Saia, 150, Memphis, Tenn., drew (10).

New York—Maxie Berger, 135, New York, outpointed Phil Baker, 134½, Norwalk, Conn., (8).

West Palm Beach, Fla.—Elly Dodge, 175½, New York, and Eddie Coderre, 178, Providence, R. I., drew (10); Johnny Dube, 139, Haverhill, Mass., and Buss Breese, 142, Manhattan, Kans., drew (8).

Tampa, Fla.—Norment Quarles, 134, Hendersonville, N. C., outpointed Chino Alvarez, 132, Tampa, (10); Buddy Schildenht, 175, Kansas City, defeated Ollie Joyner, 170, Bradenton, Fla., (8).

WRESTLING LAST NIGHT.

New York—Rudy Dusek, 218, Omaha, Neb., threw Gino Garibaldi, 216, St. Louis, 29:44.

New Haven, Conn.—Dynamite Joe Cox, 228, Kansas City, defeated Stanley Pinto, 214, New Hampshire, two straight falls.

Keresman and Tiano Urge That Bowlers Support City Tourney

Kingston, N. Y.,
February 17, 1937.

To the Bowlers,
City of Kingston.
Dear Fellow Bowlers:

Entry blanks for the first annual city bowling tournament conducted by the Kingston A. B. C. Association are now being distributed to the various leagues. The city association solicits your cooperation in making this new venture a huge success.

All bowlers who compete in organized leagues are urged to take part in the five-man, singles and doubles events which will be staged at St. Peter's alleys commencing March 23.

As you all know, this tournament, which carries the sanction of the American Bowling Congress, will determine the city championships in three divisions, 5-man, singles and doubles. Regardless of the outcome in the various leagues, the winners in the tournament only will be regarded as champions in their class.

In an effort to equalize the competition, the executive committee of the local association decided to make a team average of 840 the dividing line between Class A and Class B competition. Teams with averages of 840 or better must compete in Class A. Bowlers with 170 or better must roll Class A singles while doubles teams of a composite average of 340 must compete in Class A.

Teams will be restricted to seven men. You do not necessarily have to stick to your regular team. Anyone has the privilege to round up an all-star team providing it meets the requirements of the class in which it competes, and each member of which is affiliated with at least one sanctioned team. A bowler can compete with only one team.

Cash prizes will be awarded in all classes and for that reason we urge the maximum number of entries. As the backbone of the city's organized bowling we are making an appeal to captains and members of the City League and Silver Palace Leagues to support the city tournament to the limit.

We have made much progress since our affiliation with the American Bowling Congress. Affiliation with the national congress was instrumental in getting resurfaced alleys for our leagues. New gutter mouldings were installed at the various alleys in accordance with the A. B. C. specifications. We have tried to keep league bowling as nearly equal as possible in Kingston.

Next month four Kingston teams will compete in the national championships in New York. Our affiliation with the congress has done much to publicize the bowling activities of the city. We have been duly publicized in the A. B. C. Bulletin, official organ of the A. B. C. The fact that we had one hundred per cent A. B. C. sanction in our first season has earned us considerable distinction. In March or April we are to be visited by National Secretary Elmer E. Baumgarten. This is a rare distinction and privilege for a first year organization.

Finally we urge you to support the city tournament, for bowlers [illegible] A one hundred per [illegible] will be your contribution to the popularization of A. B. C. bowling in this city.

Faithfully yours,
PETER KERESMAN,
President.
CHARLES J. TIANO,
Secretary.
Kingston A. B. C. Association.

New Paltz News

Varied Activities At Normal School

New Paltz, Feb. 17.—Within the last week, negotiations for a Raymond Riordan-New Paltz Normal game have been successfully completed. This move on the part of the two schools is most praiseworthy since the game is to be staged as part of a gala benefit performance for the American Red Cross. Although the entire program for the benefit show has not yet been completely formulated, it has been announced that New Paltz Normal will face the Raymond Riordan school outfit in a feature game. The contest will be staged at the Poughkeepsie State Armory on Friday evening, February 26. Tickets have already been printed. The game between New Paltz and Riordan promises to be a most exciting affair since a keen rivalry exists between the two, and is for a most worthy cause.

Six new members have been accepted and will be initiated by Alpha Sigma Omicron honorary journalistic society at its regular meeting this week. The successful candidates are: Edythe Byrnes, Charles Neff, William Downes, Joseph Smith, William Israel and Joseph McCaffrey. All of these people have done good work on one of the three campus publications, The Paltzonian, The Paltzonette or the Nepano. In addition to this candidates are required to submit an article on some selected subject to the society and have published a number of articles satisfactory from the journalistic viewpoint. The program for this meeting will be conducted by members of the Paltzonian board.

Dr. Lawrence H. Van den Berg gave his first speech of the year in chapel last Tuesday. He first spoke on absence and gave explanations. Next he spoke on scholarship. He read the names of those on the honor role for first quarter and explained that in order to graduate every senior must have 96 hourly credits and 96 quality credits. He also discussed averages. A new requirement for graduation is the new comprehensive tests which will include everything studied in the three years at Normal School. Dr. Van den Berg also discussed football and asked the students to vote on the subject to see if they wish to maintain a team or not.

Sir Albion Banerji, former prime minister of Mysore and Indian statesman, lectured in chapel on Tuesday, February 16. He brought some absorbing tales of India as it is today. The subject of his address was: "India and the World Today." Sir Albion has had an exceedingly interesting and exciting past. He has held offices rather in the native states than in British India, although he has been a distinguished member of the Indian Civil Service and was knighted for that service. For seven years he was prime minister of the states of Cochin and Mysore. He won name and fame for his administrative ability by putting down corruption and intrigue with a strong hand. At one time he was also foreign minister of the famed state Kaskimir. He was born in Bristol, England, and is the first Indian of high caste born in that country.

The Freshman Hop will be held in the auditorium Saturday evening, February 27. The entire student body is invited.

Fire at Modena.

Modena, Feb. 17.—Modena fire department was called Monday evening to Albert Every's home, south of Modena village, to extinguish a chimney fire. Even though the chimney had been cleaned recently the burning of green wood had caused congestion, and the high winds of Monday fanned the flames sufficiently to cause a fire. No serious damage was done.

Bill Would Give Newsmen Support

Albany, N. Y., Feb 17 (AP).—The New York Legislature considered today a bill giving the newspaper profession the right to refuse to disclose sources of confidential information.

The bill was introduced by Assemblyman Charles H. Breitbart, Brooklyn Democrat, who said it was "intended to protect newspapermen from contempt of court proceedings as illustrated in the case of Martin Mooney, the reporter who was jailed when he refused to reveal certain confidential information regarding the 'policy racket' in New York city."

The chief provision in the bill says:

"A newspaper owner, publisher, editor or reporter shall not be compelled to disclose a communication made to him in his business or professional character or in the course of his business or professional employment."

Action at Atlanta

Atlanta, Feb 17 (AP).—A Senate-approved bill to prevent courts from forcing newspapermen to reveal confidential information obtained in their work awaited action in the Georgia House today.

Passed, 26 to 0, by the Senate yesterday, the measure occasioned lively debate when Senator Jack Williams, its author, sought to transmit it immediately to the House.

The lone opposing voice was raised by Senator G. Y. Harrell of Lumpkin who said he was against protecting reporters in "anything they do, write or say."

WOODSTOCK

Woodstock, Feb 17—Sixteen Boy Scouts from the Woodstock troop attended the district rally held in the Kingston armory on Saturday evening. On next Monday afternoon they will attend a rally of their own district to be held in the Saugerties High School. The scouts are planning to send a delegate to Washington for the national jamboree, although the delegate has not yet been selected.

An interesting service was held in the Dutch Reformed Church on Friday afternoon by the Woodstock missionary societies who participated in the national observance of the World's Day of Prayer. Short sermons were given by the Rev. Orson Rice of the M. E. Church, the Rev. A. Walter Baker of the Lutheran Church, and the Rev. Harvey I. Todd of the Dutch Reformed Church. Mrs. Lamonte Simpkins sang two songs, "Just for Today" and "The Lord's Prayer". Mrs. Hefty sang "In the Garden". Their accompanist was Mrs. Fred Toms. Others taking prominent parts in the program were Mrs. Arthur Snyder, Miss Florence Peper, Miss Lydia Russell of the Lutheran Missionary Society; Mrs. Emma Goodrich, Mrs. Norman Smith, Mrs. Orson Rice, Mrs. Clarence Shultis of the M. E. Missionary Society; Mrs. Ida Riseley, Miss Elizabeth Riseley, Mrs. Lillian Downer and the Rev. Harvey I. Todd of the Dutch Reformed Missionary Society. The Rev. Harvey I. Todd replaced the president of the Missionary Society of the Dutch Reformed Church, Mrs. Alida Riseley, who because of illness was unable to take part.

This week's cottage prayer meeting of the M. E. Church will be held on Thursday at the home of William Wilbur.

The Epworth League meets on Friday evenings at 8 o'clock at the Shady hall. Recreation, as well as the usual study, is part of each meeting's program.

Mrs. E. Bodenheimer is visiting her daughter, Mrs. Bessie Cohn.

The book committee of the Woodstock library met on Monday afternoon in the library. Members present were Mrs. W. O. Thompson, Mrs. Nancy Schoonmaker, Miss Alice Owen, Miss Gabrielle Moncure, Mrs. William Moncure and Miss Elsa Kimball. Mrs. Schoonmaker presided in the absence of Miss Isabel Dougall, chairman.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Wolven spent Sunday with friends in Port Ewen.
